Dalton Denies Report

JEFFERSON CITY AP --- Former Gov. John M. Dalton denied today that he has any plans to run for office--either for U. S. senator or governor.

"If I decide to run for anything, I'll let all of you know," he said.

His comment came in reply to a story in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat indicating Dalton might run against U. S. Sen. Edward V. Long or Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in 1968. All are Democrats.

Long already has filed for re-election.

Dalton charged that the story of his intentions was "planted" by someone who wants to get him to run against Long.

The St. Louis Globe - Democrat quoted Dalton as admitting Thursday that he may run against one or the other but saying "It will be a couple of months before I make a definite decision."

The fact that a vigorous fight may result within the party if he files for either post will not make him change his mind, Mr. Dalton said.

"A good campaign fight does not bother me. You don't have to be afraid of a fight if you're clean. There's one thing no one can question and that is my honesty."

Mr. Dalton said he has been urged by many friends to get into the Democratic primary next year and seek a public office.

He also indicated some supporters of Gov. Hearnes had tried to get him to run against Sen. Long while some friends of Sen. Long are urging him to file against Gov. Hearnes.

The thought of becoming active in the political arena again and of making a vigorous campaign is being given "due consideration," Mr. Dalton declared, and a decision will be made in a few months.

Actually, Mr. Dalton has never been "deactivated" politically since he left office in January, 1965. He has kept in touch with party leaders and of late has more and more been seen in political gatherings throughout the state.

He served four years as Attorney General and four as Governor from 1957 until 1965. Mr. Dalton resumed his law practice after that in Jefferson City and also took up his residence here. He formerly lived in Kennett, in Southeast Missouri.

It is public knowledge here that Mr. Dalton and Gov. Hearnes have little love for each other. However, there is a friendship between Mr. Dalton and Sen. Long.

Sen. Long already has filed for another term, but Gov. Hearnes has not. However most observers believe he is a sure shot to try for another four years and become the first Missouri Governor to serve eight consecutive years.

Under a drive directed by Mr. Hearnes two years ago, the legislators and voters passed a constitutional amendment lifting the one - term limit from the Governor's office.

City School Administrators Unveil $1,700,000 Program

School administrators in an open meeting Thursday night at the high school building outlined to the school board appointed citizens advisory council needs of the school system.

Chief topics of discussion included an increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school, a gymnasium and an auditorium, expansion of facilities at the high school and a reorganization of grade blocks taught at junior high school and the high school.

The plans outlined are possible solutions to meet the educational needs of the growing system, Supt. Lynn Twitty said.

The council is consulted by the school board before new plans are effected.

None of the plans discussed represent final decisions by the school board, Twitty said.

The purpose of the Thursday meeting was to feel the pulse of the community after tentative plans were outlined. The council gave the school board its vote of confidence after hearing the proposals estimated to cost $1,700,000.

The new bonding capacity of the school district will be $1,300,000 in April. This amount can be obtained by the board with a 20-year bond issue, which would be accompanied by a higher interest rate, Twitty said.

Another $200,000 is expected to be received in federal funds through the state for expansion of the vocational education program.

A remaining $200,000 poses a problem. The board has discussed plans to raise the money with the city administration, but no definite plans have been outlined.

Twitty said the $1,300,000 would be available without a tax increase.

An outstanding eight-year, $600,000 bond issue for expansion of the high school will be retired within this fiscal year, allowing money that was used to pay off this debt to be diverted for other purposes, Twitty explained.

The new bond issue would probably carry an interest rate of about 4 per cent. The eight-year issue carried a 2.56 interest rate.

The presentation Thursday night did not include a detailed breakdown on how much money would be spent on each proposal.

It was pointed out that $400,000 - half from federal funds and half from matched funds - would be spent for the expansion of the vocational education program.

The vocational education plans call for construction of a new building for teaching building trades, plus additions to the auto mechanics and the business education buildings.

How the remaining $1,100,000 world be earmarked has not been decided. But it would be used for the following purposes, Twitty said:

1) An increase in teachers' salaries.

2) A multi-purpose, well-equipped gymnasium. The gym is expected to be round with collapsible bleachers and facilities for physical education classes.

3) An auditorium for teaching fine arts - speech and dramatics - and for assemblies and plays.

4) Construction of a new elementary school at Ables and Marian at the southeast corner of the city limits. Plans called for vacating of the Airport school. The lease on the Airport school expires in two years, and it is expensive to maintain, Twitty continued.

5) Expansion of the cafetorium and the kitchen facilities at the high school. Plans in the offing call for addition of a bakery and storage space to enable all food served in the school system to be prepared at the high school cafetorium.

6) Addition of two more rooms to the mathematics and science departments at the high school. Two rooms are being added to these departments.

7) Addition of a second level with more stacks in the school library.

Plans for shifting the sixth grade to junior high school and moving the ninth grade into high school also were discussed.

The system has elementary grades 1-6, junior high 7-9, and high 10-12.

By moving the sixth grade into junior high and placing pupils where they will have longer time blocks of related subjects closer to each other, the program will be easier to coordinate, Harold Kiehne, director of secondary education said.

The ninth grade's move into the high school would result in some overcrowding, Kiehne said.

It would be necessary to curtail physical education activities until additional accommodations are constructed.

An entire reorganization of the band, music and the national forensic league would be effected in the early stages, Kiehne explained.

One of the chief advantages of moving the ninth grade to the high school is to eliminate shuttling there by foreign language and shop students.

Twitty said the school board probably will make the final decisions on the plans within the next two months.

Court Permits Legislators to Decide

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) - The Georgia Supreme Court in a 5-2 decision ruled today that the legislature may elect the next governor in the deadlocked race between Democratic Lester G. Maddox and Republican Howard H. (Bo). Callaway, an authoritative source said.

The tribunal upheld a lower court decision.

The Associated Press learned of the decision prior to the official announcement, which was delayed until copies of the opinion could be printed.

$1,950 Theft in Miner

The burglary was discovered this morning by Gerald Presley, store owner.

Taken were cartons of cigarettes, shotgun shells and meat, including a side of beef, indicating that the burglars must have used a truck to haul away the loot.

It has not been determined how entry was gained. The front door had been forced open and tire tracks were found in front of the store.

FAA Voids Lights For City Airport

The city recently received notification from the Federal Aviation Agency that the application for $17,500 in federal funds to install new lights at the airport runway was rejected.

The city had planned to install new lights on the runway and use the existing runway lights on the taxiway, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Cost of the new lights was estimated to cost $35,000.

"We will resubmit the application to the FAA," Miller said.

Both the taxiway and the runway are 4,300 feet long.

The application was made last spring, Miller said.

Metal Steeple Caps Church's Building

This heavenward thrust of gleaming metal came in answer to the congregation's prayers, plans and toil for a completed church building.

The steeple was the final stage of a building plan extending back to 1948 when the church was organized.

A basement was started in 1948.

The educational building then was completed.

The sanctuary was finished in 1961.

The steeple, weighing 2,250 pounds, was put into place yesterday.

The church now owns a $200,000 plant, boosts 425 members and an average Sunday School attendance of 200.

The prefabricated steeple, constructed in Campbell, Ky., was towed by motor to the church site. It cost $6,000.

A memorial gift, the steeple was provided by two New Madrid women members of the church -- Mrs. Bess Copeland in memory of her husband, Fred Copeland, and Mrs. Illa Perry in memory of her husband, Paul Crouthers.

UP IT GOES! This aluminum steeple was placed atop the Baptist church in New Madrid yesterday, completing a building program. The spire was swung into place from a cable attached to a crane operated by the Ray Clinton Construction Company.

Coach Lambert Killed

Sedan Strikes Truck

Nathan W. Lambert, 28-year-old Sikeston junior high school and high school coach, was killed instantly this morning when his car crashed into a stalled truck on highway 60 one half mile east of Sikeston. He was alone.

He was one of two persons killed in highway accidents in Southeast Missouri overnight.

Lambert served as assistant basketball coach in high school basketball and as junior high school assistant football coach.

He had attended a high school wrestling match at the armory last night.

He was killed when his westbound car crashed into the truck at 1:45 a.m. The car, a 1965 Pontiac four-door sedan, was demolished. This was his first year as coach in the Sikeston public school system.

Nathan W. Lambert

Lambert lived at 318 Luther St.

His car struck a parked 1966 GMC tractor-trailer, driven by Erskine Scott, 33, Munford, Tenn.

The stalled truck had flares and signal lights flashing according to the state highway patrol. John Scott, a brother of Erskine Scott, 49, Brighton, Tenn., a truck passenger, was slightly injured.

Lambert's body was taken to the Smith Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Lambert was born June 21, 1938, son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Lambert.

He graduated from Sikeston high school in 1958, where he starred in basketball in his junior and senior years. He played forward and was the team's top scorer in his senior year.

He was a member of a team that went to the state tournament in 1958 and received a basketball scholarship to Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Texas, where he graduated.

He taught and coached in O'Bannon high school at New Madrid five years.

He was a member of the West End Baptist church. In 1962 he married Lora Jackson, who survived.

Other survivors are two children, Debra and Vernon; his mother, Mrs. Sadie Lambert, Sikeston; six brothers, Charles Lambert in Army, Walter Lambert with the Navy in Guam, McKinley, Charles Howard, Bobby Joe and Linzie Lambert, all of Sikeston; five sisters, Mrs. Juanita Collins,

Hanoi Repeats Terms

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Vietnam's radio broadcast today an "authorized" statement repeating Premier Pham Van Dong's description of Hanoi's four-point stand on the Vietnam war as a "basis" for settlement.

The terse announcement left in doubt whether it was meant to encourage or to dampen hopes for negotiations aroused by the North Vietnamese premier's interview with Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, printed Wednesday.

The statement was preceded by complaints that some newspapers and broadcasts in "capitalist nations" had distorted the premier's statements, but no specific instance of distortion was given.

The broadcast said: "On this matter the Vietnam news agency has been authorized to make the following statement: The original text of what Premier Pham Van Dong told Mr. Harrison Salisbury was: 'The position of the four points of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam is a basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems.'"

Premier Dong's original statement was interpreted by some sources to mean a measure of retreat from the hard line, all-or-nothing stand of the four points which have been the main obstacles to negotiations. He was quoted as saying the four points were not necessarily preconditions to talks.

The four points include demands that the United States withdraw all its troops and installations from South Vietnam, recognize the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Vietnam, end all acts of war against the north, and permit settlement by the Vietnamese themselves, without foreign interference, "in accordance with the program" of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong in the south.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a letter to a North Carolina student leader, said the United States is ready now to meet with Hanoi representatives either publicly or secretly to work out "arrangements for a just solution." He said there would be no difficulty having the Viet Cong's views presented, but rejected the demand that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front be the only spokesman for the South Vietnamese people.

The Hanoi premier's interview touched off a flurry of speculation about North Viet Nam's interest in some sort of negotiations, and the speculation was intensified Thursday by remarks of the head of Hanoi's mission in Paris.

Mai Van Bo, head of that mission, asked about his government's attitude should Washington order an end to the bombing of the north, replied that he believed "such a proposal would be examined and studied by the Hanoi authorities, too."

He accused the United States of repeatedly violating the 1954 Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam, and insisted that the four-point demands remained the basis of Hanoi's approach to the problem. He demanded a prompt and unconditional halt to U.S. bombing of the north, but added that the United States had no right to ask for any reciprocal action from North Vietnam.

The U.S. State Department said Thursday the United States was prepared to order a halt to all bombing of the north as soon as Hanoi gave assurance, privately or otherwise, that the move would result in scaling down of hostilities by the Communist side.

Artist Reviews Portrait Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The artist whose commissioned portrait of President Johnson was rejected by the First Family says he had to work with a sleeping subject and turn aside Mrs. Johnson's suggestions on how to paint the work.

And now, says artist Peter Hurd, he's lost interest in a second and smaller portrait he was doing of the President.

But even if the Johnsons don't like the first effort, there apparently is a demand for it from a museum and private collectors.

News of the turndown became public Thursday and was confirmed by Mrs. Johnson's press secretary Elizabeth Carpenter, who said the President "didn't like it and neither did she (Mrs. Johnson."

The portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring. The Washington Post said Mrs. Johnson told Hurd that a stormy scene which ensued was so unforgettable she didn't expect ever to endure anything so grim again.

Hurd said that when the portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring the President "didn't like it a darn bit" and described it as "the ugliest thing I ever saw."

"The President was terribly tired," said the artist, who quoted Mrs. Johnson as saying the chief executive had been under tremendous pressure during the weekend. But Hurd said he and his wife spent the night at the Johnson ranch in Texas and otherwise were treated cordially.

Hurd, known for his southwestern landscapes and portraits, said from his New Mexico ranch the fact that he turned down changes suggested by the Johnsons could have been responsible for their rejecting the portrait.

"I just couldn't follow their suggestions and at the same time not lose quality in the painting," Hurd said.

He said Mrs. Johnson wanted it reduced in size from 40 inches by 48 inches to 30 inches by 36 inches.

"She was most kind, most cordial," Hurd said. "But some of her ideas I just couldn't carry out, like making the Capitol Dome misty and hazy."

The sharply-defined Capitol is midway down the left side of the painting, in a scale putting it far behind Johnson. The President is standing with a book in his hand and is depicted from about the waist up. He wears a serious expression on the three-quarter view of his face.

Hurd said he was forced to work mostly from photographs because he was permitted only one 30-minute sitting with Johnson — and that when the President "was terribly fatigued from a very busy week in Washington" and fell asleep, said the artist. "He was terribly sleepy, dead beat, bushed.

"I knew the President couldn't possibly give me much time," said Hurd, "but I hoped for a little more than I got from him. You don't begin to get into it in a half hour."

Hurd, who two months ago was working on a second Johnson portrait said Thursday he "just plain lost interest" in it because all he had to work from was a widely distributed photograph of the President.

"The only one I'd look at was in every darn bureaucrat's office in America," Hurd said. The unfinished painting showed Johnson at his desk, hands in front of him.

The larger portrait is reportedly to go in display in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday at the Gallery of Fine Arts and is also sought by the National Portrait Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution.

Legislators Take Break

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Members of the 1967 Missouri Legislature have gone home for the weekend and many of them, presumably, will spend at least part of the time studying Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' billion dollar budget.

They got the 229-page budget books Thursday, the second day of the new session.

When House members return Monday they may get the report of the Rules Committee. And if they adopt the new rules, Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, said he would name the chairmen and members of the 37 standing committees.

One of the big questions is whom he will name for the all-important appropriations committee. It works harder and longer than any other.

The Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee, meanwhile, is busy checking and rechecking the budget figures in order to be as much help as possible to the appropriations committee.

Dexter Hospital Dedication To Be Sunday

DEXTER -- The Dexter Memorial hospital building fund program will hold a dedication and ground breaking ceremony for the new hospital Sunday at 2 p.m. on the site on One Mile Road off of highway 60.

What the hospital will mean to families, to a patient from a physician's point of view, and what it means from the ministry of healing will be discussed.

Four Accident Victims Treated

Four accident victims were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital, Wednesday.

Sandburg Avoids Ado On 89th Birthday

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) - There was no cake, no interview and no to-do for Carl Sandburg today on the poet-biographer's 89th birthday.

A few friends were expected to drop by Connemara, Sandburg's goat farm in this plateau country of the Blue Ridge Mountains, but nothing formal was planned.

"He won't eat cake so there's no sense in baking a birthday cake," said Paula, his wife, whom he married 58 years ago. "He never has liked cake or fancy things."

Sandburg, born in Galesburg, Ill., has done little writing since he was hospitalized in September 1965 with an intestinal disorder.

He spends most of the morning hours in bed. But in the afternoons, wearing baggy trousers, loose sweater and soft shoes, he putters about the big white frame building.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

BAKER'S DAY IN COURT

Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, the celebrated former Senate page, is scheduled to stand trial Monday Jan. 9 in Washington on nine charges of conspiracy, fraud, larceny, and tax evasion. His arraignment on the same charges occurred almost one year ago. The nine counts carry a maximum penalty of 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines.

The federal government contends that Baker used his position as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority to obtain around $100,000 from various individuals and corporations. In 1961 and 1962, the government alleges, Baker filed fraudulent income tax returns. Baker himself estimated his net worth in 1963 as more than $2.5 million.

During six days of pretrial hearings in November, Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's attorney, sought dismissal on grounds that the grand jury had been influenced by "venomous" articles in Washington newspapers and that some prosecution evidence had been obtained illegally through electronic eavesdropping. Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch declined to suppress all of the government's evidence, but he did rule inadmissible the conversations recorded by bugging devices.

The Baker case owes much of its prominence to the accused's close association with Lyndon B. Johnson when the latter was Senate majority leader and later Vice President. Whatever the verdict, the Baker trial and its attendant publicity are bound to embarrass the President politically and personally. But in view of Johnson's manifold other problems at home and abroad, the trial may not have quite the sensational impact that originally was expected of it.

President Lyndon B. Johnson hates to be reminded about the credibility gap for which administration is solely responsible.

He cannot shift the blame for this lapse to the press or to others.

The sign on the desk of Missouri's Harry Truman when he was President told the story in the observation that the "buck passing stops here."

In the Johnson administration the buck passing is more likely to start with the chief executive. It's one reason why Americans have lowered steadily their estimate of him.

This month veteran Congressman Paul Jones of Kennett told an audience in Sikeston that he didn't know what the war in Vietnam is costing the American people, who after all are footing the bill and have the right to have the information.

If President Johnson had been present he probably would have asked Jones to stand in the corner and wear a dunce cap.

During a press conference Sept. 21 he responded to a question about the war's costs by asking the reporter "do his homework", which really wasn't an answer but a flimsy, cheap, unwarranted excuse, beneath the dignity of the nation's chief executive.

"Q: Mr. President, sir, we really have not been told how much the war in Vietnam is costing and how much it is costing from day to day. This question has been put to Mr. McNamara early in the year and he said it is almost impossible to tell, and lately U.S. officials said they couldn't quite tell us. Don't you think the American people ought to be told? And I'm sure you know.

"A: I think that the Congress, through the Appropriations Committee and Authorizations Committee, have had very full details on our expenditures, men, money, and material in Vietnam. I would commend to you some home work. Read the hearings."

How can a reporter be expected to know the answer to a question denied to congressmen and other high government officials and which the President himself does not in fact answer?

What the nation and the reporter are getting is Great Society flippancy and it is wearing a little thin.

McNamara, the secretary of defense, and other officials have refused consistently to give clear statements about the cost of the war not only to reporters but to congressmen at official hearings, including those to which the President referred so acidly.

This is extremely puzzling since McNamara periodically talks about the money he has saved the nation down to such explicit details as the saving on bolts to hold armor on a helicopter.

If congressional hearings contain "full details on our expenditures" in Vietnam why do so many administration spokesmen still say publicly that they cannot supply this information?

If the President knows that the hearings provide this information he could answer a reporter's question candidly and with dignity.

In May of 1965 McNamara said the war would cost $700 million a year.

The senate military preparedness subcommittee now estimates that an additional $12 to $15 billion (that's right, billion, not million) will be needed for this fiscal year.

What the reporter really asked was whether the American people should be told the war's cost.

They should be.

OUR OWN PREDICTIONS

The recent Christmas holidays seemed devoted, in no small part, to speculation of the political future of Missouri's chief executive, Southeast Missourian Warren E. Hearnes. Just why the Santa Claus season and the political guessing season should coincide is anyone's guess, but the past several days have produced scores of predictions about the future of Governor Hearnes.

One normally rational political writer produced a holiday story that had Governor Hearnes seeking the vice-presidential nomination, if not in 1968 then in 1972. Still another produced a prediction that the chief executive would not seek re-election to his present job, something he worked hard to bring about through a change in the state's Constitution, and would become a candidate for the Tenth District U.S. Representative's post that will be vacated in 1968 by Congressman Paul Jones.

Without knowing any more than the other speculators we would guess that Governor Hearnes hopes to become the first Missourian to serve two consecutive terms in the chief executive's office. We are predicting, even before the political season gets underway, that the Southeast Missourian will file for re-election for his present job.

During his nearly two years in office, Governor Hearnes has compiled an outstanding record, achieving progress in all kinds of state programs ranging from higher education to mental health. He has avoided a tax increase, something he pledged to avoid during the 1964 campaign, and has been the beneficiary of an ever-expanding state tax revenue that has permitted broader financing of essential state programs. His administration has been free of scandal and he has continued to solidify his leadership within his own party.

At the moment there appears no serious candidate on the horizon who could, in our opinion, run him any kind of a race.

With such advantages it is hard to see why the Governor should be interested in any other job. We predict he will seek another four-year term when the time comes, particularly if his public record continues to shine as brightly as it does after two years in the Governor's office. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

"I beg your pardon?"

"Be glad to buy you a drink," I said.

"Not drink. Duck!" he said. "That was Joe Penner's line. Ya wanna buy a duck."

I ordered anyway — for both of us.

"You're like the rest of them," the man said, ungratefully. "You don't know who Joe Penner was. You probably don't remember Mary Noble, Backstage Wife, who was on right after Young Widder Brown and right ahead of Stella Dallas."

"Two years," he said. "Two years ago everybody was talking about them. Couldn't go to a party without someone looking off into space and sighing 'I used to crawl under the covers at night — so my mother wouldn't know I was still awake — to listen to Inner Sanctum which was on at 11 o'clock'."

I nodded.

"Me, I wasn't that kind of kid," he went on. "I never played sick and stayed home to bone up on Portia Faces Life whose husband Walter was no good and who'd have all those mysterious illness that laid him up in the hospital for months while everybody sat at his bedside and talked about him."

"Listen to this," he said: " 'Can this little girl from a mining town in Colorado win happiness as the wife of England's richest and most handsome lord — Lord Henry Brinthrope'?"

"And that was — "I said, a la Fred Allen.

"That was the opening of Our Gal Sunday whose family home was called Black Swan Hall and who had a no-good brother coming in and lousing things up."

There was no stopping him.

"Francis X. Bushman in Drums on Sunday Afternoon, took place in India and the natives always were restless. Harry Horlick and the A&P gypsies. Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra with Evelyn and her magic violin. Eddie Cantor singing I Love To Spend Each Sunday With You. The Fitch Bandwagon, use your head, save your hair. Hans Conried, Jim Backus and Ray Collins in soap operas. Mary Marlin who came on to the strains of Clair de Lune and was a lady congressman."

He went on in a bitter blur.

"You must be the hit of every party," I said, "with a memory like that."

"Not so," he said. "Two years ago when everybody was talking nostalgic trivia I was out of the swim. So I boned up. Read books, bought records, listened to rebroadcasts at 3 in the morning. Went to the library and ruined my eyes on microfilms of old newspapers."

"So?"

"So, now that I'm up on these things nobody talks about them any more. Now they're talking about Uncle Miltie, your Show of Shows and Matinee Theater."

"I know those," I said. "Ah, the good old days of television!"

RIGHT-TO-VOTE AND WORK?

Some of the most important and far-reaching legislation the current Congress is still considering has to do with labor.

At the top of the list is the drive to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartly Act which permits states, if they so choose, to enact Right-To-Work laws. This has passed the House and is now in the Senate. If the Senate succumbs to the powerful, even ruthless, political pressures which demand repeal, rank-and-file working people will be deprived of an absolutely essential right and protection. No matter what their beliefs and wants, they will be forced to join and pay dues to a private organization, a union, or lose their jobs. This is as unthinkable as if Congress passed a law denying a man the right to join a union.

Along with this, another vital issue is at stake. It is the Right-to-vote. This simply means that no union should be certified as bargaining agent for employees without a secret ballot election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. As of now, certification can be gained on the basis of a card count. The weaknesses in this are glaring. As the Cincinnati Enquirer has said, "Certification of a union as the bargaining agent for a group of employees should not be made on the basis of signatures to cards, as pressures conceivably could be used to obtain these that would not be operative in a secret election.. Nor should there be a recognition simply on the basis of a contract between employer and union leader because there have been cases where so-called sweetheart contracts scratched the back of the employer and the union boss but sold out the working man."

The weary charge that Right-to-Work and Right-to-Vote laws are "antiunion" is as phony as a three dollar bill. They are, instead, protections against exploitation and misrepresentation of the desires and beliefs of the working man who should have freedom of choice.

A popular bachelor attached to the American Embassy in London had just returned from a weekend in the midlands at a stately country home. When asked by a friend what sort of a time he had had, he replied, "If the soup had been as warm as the wine, and the wine as old as the chicken, and the chicken as tender as the upstairs maid, and the upstairs maid as willing as the duchess, it would have been perfect."

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- While the world press has sounded the alarm over the rise of Neo-Nazism in Germany, the extremist Liberty Lobby is holding a convention this weekend right in the capital of the United States.

The featured speaker will be Rep. Albert Watson, R.-S.C., who previously had let the organization use his name to promote its propaganda. Also listed on the program is congressman - elect John Rarick, D.-La.

The concern over the resurgence of Neo-Nazism in Germany is such that 29 distinguished Americans, including former undersecretaries of state Robert Murphy and Charles Saltzman, have conducted an investigation of the German situation.

But little public concern has been expressed over the way the same philosophy is gaining converts in the ruling circles of America. No one is investigating the Liberty Lobby whose founder and leader, Willis Carto, is an outspoken admirer of Adolf Hitler.

Carto not only has called Hitler's defeat a historical tragedy, but has inspired propaganda in this country against both Jews and Negroes. He has gone so far as to start a campaign to exile to Africa all American citizens whose skin happens to be black. In his letters to fellow extremists, at least those seen by this column, he hasn't said how he would solve the "Jewish problem."

ROLL CALL OF LOBBYISTS

Carto has surrounded himself on Liberty Lobby's policy board with such extremists as the following:

TYLER KENT -- He was convicted by a British court in 1940 for delivering secret information to the axis. The Liberty Lobby describes Kent as "an authentic American hero who was illegally sent to a British Jail for trying to expose Roosevelt's criminal war plans."

ED DELANEY -- As a broadcaster on Berlin radio, he worked for the Nazi foreign office during the early period of World War II. He quit, however, after the U. S. entered the war, and an indictment for treason was dismissed.

KENNETH GOFF -- A repentant Communist, he subsequently joined forces with rabid anti-Jewish Gerald L. K. Smith.

REV. JAMES P. DEES -- He is another supporter of Gerald L. K. Smith, whom he was called "the greatest patriot in this country today."

W. Henry MacFarland -- He has headed several right-wing groups labeled by the attorney general and House Un-American Activities Committee as "Fascist." He also has been an associate and admirer of Gerald L. K. Smith.

ROBERT KUTTNER -- A contributor to several extremist publications, he is now a contributing editor of the Anti-Semitic, Anti-Negro Magazine, Western Destiny, which refers to World War II as a "fratricidal" war. Kuttner has written in the magazine that "evolutionary ethics defends the duty of the state to control the biological composition of its future populations."

There are others on the Liberty Lobby's board who are equally radical. Yet they are the kind of company with whom the right-lane fellow travelers on Capital Hill find themselves.

Note -- The Liberty Lobby sued this column for branding the testimony of its Chairman, Curtis Dall, as anti-semitic. We won the suit, including all appeals up to and including the U. S. Supreme Court.

COMMUNISM vs. FASCISM

If a dozen congressmen were found to be fronting for the Communists it would cause a scandal that would shake the republic to its foundations. Yet there are a dozen congressmen who openly front for these subversives of the ultra-right.

Most Americans are so obsessed with the menace of Communism, which seeks to turn a free society into a closed tyranny, that they have become oblivious to the attack on our freedoms by the radicals of the right who, in the name of liberty, wish to take away the liberty of the majority.

These fanatics pose as patriots, disguise themselves behind "fronts" with star-spangled names, preach the slogans of democracy, and proclaim their hatred of Communism with a great gnashing of teeth. They hurl the word "subversive" at others, though it more appropriately fits them.

Congressman Watson, who will deliver the keynote address at the Liberty Lobby convention this weekend, previously signed his name to a letter mailed out to 100,000 prospective customers, urging them to subscribe to the group's propaganda as "a good way to keep abreast of these perilous times on Capitol Hill."

Congressman Utt, whose administrative assistant has been on the Liberty Lobby's payroll at the same time he was collecting a salary from Uncle Sam, has also signed his name to a Liberty Lobby sales pitch.

"Liberty Lobby consistently works in the halls of congress," wrote Utt, "to oppose the international socialist takeover. Its 50,000 conservative activists from a letter- writing brigade which has already made its influence felt in several crucial votes."

Liberty Lobby has also awarded citations to congressmen Berry, Dorn, Dowdy, Utt, Waggonner and Williams, proclaiming them "statesmen of the republic." Most of them have participated in the organization's "patriotic" rallies.

Like the ultra-liberals of the 1930's who allowed their names to be used by Communist front groups, these right - lane fellow travelers are now allowing their names to be used to give respectability to the right - wing extremists.

Doc. Duncan Says

What do you mean SI?

On the radio here comes the war news. One guy sez 20,000 North Vitamins come over to Ky's side last year, almost double the year before and then he shets up about the war. In a few minutes on another station another guy sez the same, but adds 67,000 South Vitamins left Ky's side and went to the North side.

Yept, guess that aint no lie. It jes aint the whole truth maybe.

H. L. Hunt Says

BOY SCOUTS AND FREEDOM

Recently I read of a movement underway to drop the "boy" from Boy Scouts. We are being told that the present name sounds too young; that it just doesn't convey the right "image." Now I don't know what "image" the people planners have in mind for this outstanding youth group. In fact, I'm not sure that most people understand the planners' definition of the word "image."

But I do know that I also recently read where three men were sentenced to two years in prison for distributing Boy Scout literature in communist Hungary. In that country the Boy Scout movement is banned.

Just what is it about Boy Scouts that bothers the Reds so much? Could it be that they see a threat to Communism when young people take oaths to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent? Could be!

Come to think about it, they apparently see a threat in young people behaving in any manner except as militant, anti-God collectivists.

But if Boy Scouts have earned the distinction of being hated and feared by communists, they are of age. And they are worthy of our respect and support, regardless of why they may be called.

The example which the Scouts have set over the years is clear-cut and worthy of emulation by all freedom-loving people.

Communism--Socialism exploits youth. Freedom offers it a challenge, a purpose. Communism-Socialism stifles youth and destroys the spirit which is always young. Let's join the Boy Scouts in preserving freedom! HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor's Man of the Year: The Seafarers' Militant: Paul Hall

New York: -- In days of yore and gore, before the waterfront became a movie and moved into gentility, some fifty muscled New Jersey dockwallopers crossed the Hudson and went in search of an elusive newspaperman. The reporter, I can tell you personally, learned of the posse and called his good friend, the Seafarers' president Paul Hall.

A few hours later the columnist, in "high noon' style, walked slowly into the center of a street towards the 50 goons. They made for him.

But looking past the lone chap they noticed several hundred white-capped huskies blocking one end of the street. They turned quickly. They had been trapped.

The other end was closed off by another battalion of white caps -- and the Jersey thugs knew that these white caps meant a storm. The caps were worn by Hall's lads. They had executed a perfect maneuver, located the invading mob, bottled them up and discouraged them -- and all the time these seafarers were in walkie talkie touch with Hall and headquarters over in Brooklyn.

Hall had moved rapidly because a friend had asked for help. He acted and then asked. He could not -- and can not -- conceive that a loyal friend would deceive or "position" him, because he himself would not do that to a friend.

He places a premium on loyalty. He has shown that loyalty to most of the labor movement. It is believed that the labor movement will reciprocate when the time comes.

To those on the inside, this means that few men have the strength, the support, the votes, the fraternity that the 52-year-old, 230-pound, ex-prizefighter (75 bouts), ex-seagoing oiler will have in the final count when it is tallied for a successor to AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Therefore, as the man who most likely will be the Mr. Labor of the 1970s -- Paul Hall, in this corner, is The Labor Man Of The Year.

Lest this vignette of mr. Hall be misinterpreted, it must be reiterated immediately that "Paul" cannot be measured only in "physical" terms. Though, in a land where the public thinks of labor solely in the image of Jimmy Hoffa or Walter Reuther, Hall is not widely known. Yet he has taken on the biggest ones -- intellectually, organizationally, politically, philosophically and oratorically.

He can, because he does his homework. And he has won. He has beaten in a series of contests men such as Lyndon Johnson, Bob Kennedy, Walter Reuther, Jim Hoffa and 1,000 British Labor Congress delegates.

And now he has decided to challenge the entire maritime fleet of the Soviet Union. For he not only is president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, and vice-president of the AFL-CIO itself, but is head of the 30-union Maritime Trades Dept., AFL-CIO.

He can battle because he has put his house in order. And it is a big house indeed.

He has a stage-set type of headquarters - over in Brooklyn's waterfront area. There are schools for young men who want to go to sea. He has built a magnificent marina out in the bay -- replete with ships, galleys and a fantastic mess hall.

In Washington, he has moved the proletariat into Embassy Row at 2929 Massachusetts Ave. N.W. There in a vine-covered 29-room (expanding) neo-Georgian mansion with lush gardens in which once trod Vanderbilts and royalty, the Seafarers will run their new capital headquarters.

No embassy will be run any more efficiently. It will hum like Hall's computerized Brooklyn home office.

But Paul Hall's strength is not in his showpieces. It is in his loyalty, energy and bluntness.

He has beaten Jim Hoffa in a dozen cities. He loathes him and thinks him a fink. Yet recently Hall sharply criticized "the methods" used by Bob Kennedy to "get" Jimmy Hoffa.

Hall, one of Mr. Meany's stauncher stalwarts, believes that Hoffa is a labor matter and it could have been settled on the home front.

Hall thinks little of Walter Reuther. More than once he has broiled the articulate Detroiter with smothering oratory behind the locked doors of the AFL-CIO executive council.

As for President Johnson, the Seafarer respects him, but stands up to the man and even the office of the chief executive.

Last summer at a White House dinner for some 70 labor leaders, Mr. Johnson ruefully looked across the room at Paul Hall, who was sitting with Dean Rusk, and remarked loudly, "It is said I am the most powerful man in the world. It is not true that the President can do what he wishes -- or deliver as he wishes. Just ask Paul Hall if you think the President really is powerful."

Then the President of the U.S. said, "The other day we wanted a bill passed" over Mr. Hall's oppostion, "and all we got were 63 votes." Later Mr. Johnson asked Mr. Meany to slip over to Mr. Hall and urge him to confer with three of the President's advisers.

But all this courage, dynamism, preparation, are not what may well make Hall president of the AFL-CIO's 13.5 million followers. Some say that Paul Hall is pulling a Barry Goldwater -- organizationally speaking.

Hall goes everywhere -- the laborers' convention, the labor press luncheons, banquets, strike meetings, conferences -- everywhere he is asked for a speech or political, financial and organizational assistance.

And he never goes unprepared. His advance men go in first to discover the issue, the need, the conversation pieces. Then he speaks. But rarely compromises.

When the AFL-CIO sent him to the British Trade Union Congress in Blackpool Eng., last summer, he went, defended the American position in Vietnam and stuck to his premise though the British howled.

When he returned, there was a note on his desk from Lyndon Johnson.

Paul Hall is labor's prototype of the organization man. It is said that he has many IOUs standing -- from social service workers, teamsters, bricklayers, schoolteachers and public employes.

Those are not IOUs. They are notes of friendship.

And they will turn into votes for the tough, militant, but economically sophisticated Seafarers when the time comes to choose a successor to Mr. Meany -- whenever that may be.

New Math for Women's Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) - The new math for women's fashions goes like this: For daytime wear subtract as much as the law allows from the bottom. For evening subtract that much from the top.

There is also a lot of multiplication of pleats in the new suits and division - long and short - of skirts into party pajamas, culottes and even boxer shorts.

The style lesson began Wednesday for more than 230 newswomen here for the New York couture group's semiannual press week activities and will continue through Sunday.

Leggy lasses in the Monte-Sano and Pruzan collection wore good examples of the first axiom. Their skirts were short and spare, while jackets were wide at the shoulder, high necked, or built up even further with scarves.

The Junior Sophisticate house began a parade of cold shoulders, a trend continued later in the evening wear by Cameo and by Harvey Berin's designer Karen Stark. One-shoulder togas, string straps, deep dipping decolletege and no-shoulder wraparounds were among the regal gowns in slinky crepes or wispy chiffons that reached the ground.

Sharply sophisticated, were Cameo's black-and-white panel crepe dresses, some with sleeves, some without shoulder covers.

Chiffon multiplied by the yards formed floaty wings on the backs of angelic models in formal party dress. Generous was the material, and sparkling with gems or metallic threads were the party dresses created by Morty Sussman for Jobere.

And generous will be the husbands who pay for these extravagant creations this year.

Mrs. Ashcraft is the former Miss Nancy Moroni, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Enzo Moroni of Painton. Ashcraft is a counselor at Advance high school and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Ashcraft of Brownwood.

TAKE AND GIVE

A family who had just moved into a new neighborhood was anxious to make a good impression. But the neighbors seemed cold, and made no overtures of welcome. The mother of the brood was overjoyed when finally her youngest son ran in and announced happily, "Mommy, the lady down the street asked my name today!"

"Oh, how nice!" exclaimed the mother enthusiastically. "And then what did she do?"

"Then she gave it to the policeman," the boy said.

Miss Margie Lorene Sutton

Miss Sutton Betrothed To Thomas H. Maddox

MATTHEWS - Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sutton announce the engagement of their daughter, Margie Lorene, to Thomas Harrison Maddox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Maddox of New Madrid.

The bride-elect is a senior at Matthews high school. Maddox is a 1966 graduate of New Madrid high school and is employed at the REA Express Co. in St. Louis.

Wedding plans are indefinite.

Miss Carolyn Williams Weds Richard Crow

CHARLESTON -- Miss Carolyn Williams of Cape Girardeau became the bride of Richard Crow at 10 a.m. Saturday, at the Southside Baptist church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fay Jeffries of Cape Girardeau and the late Charles Williams and granddaughter of Mrs. Zettie McCutchen.

Crow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Crow of Columbia. The bride is a former resident of Charleston.

The Rev. Eugene Runnels, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. A large arrangement of white gladioli, leaf fern and two seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers appointed the sanctuary. The traditional white bridal carpet covered the aisle and white bows marked the pews. Mrs. Cora Stallings, organist, played the wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. Bill Wills who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Glenn McCutchen of St. Louis, wore a formal gown of angel mist taffeta and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice highlighted with sequins, long sleeves ending in calla lily points at the wrists. The floor-length skirt was accented by ripple of ruffles, beginning at the back of the waistline and ending in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was shoulder length. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Miss Sherry Williams of Cape Girardeau served as maid of honor. She wore a crepe dress, the bodice of which was fashioned of cranberry shade velvet and bateau neckline which dipped low in the back. Her skirt fell floor - length from an Empire waistline outlined with lace. Her short veil of illusion and her slippers matched the velvet bodice.

Miss Linda Francis and Miss Carolyn Crow of Columbia served as bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical except in color to that of the maid of honor. Miss Francis, wore Christmas green, with light green skirt and Miss Crow, royal blue with light blue skirt. The maid of honor and each bridesmaid carried a white fur muff.

John Wilson of Columbia served as best man and the groomsmen were William Henry and Mark Anderson, both of Columbia. Darrel Jeffries, was ring bearer. The men wore black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Jeffries, mother of the bride, wore a three-piece suit of rose pink with pink lace blouse and a fur hat and other accessories of brown. Mrs. Zettie McCutchen, the bride's grandmother, wore navy blue silk and black accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table, overlaid with white lace cloth, was centered with white candles in crystal and greenery.

A three - tier wedding cake was served with punch, mints and nuts by Misses Esther Taylor and Marilyn Crow. Mrs. Dewey Pry, and Mrs. Charles Adcock served as table hostesses. Miss Ilene Crow was in charge of the guest register.

Mr. Crow and his bride left the reception to go to their home in Columbia.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Michael Ward, Harold Dickmeyer III, Mrs. Virginia Dickmeyer and Mrs. Dona Smith of Granite City, Ill.; Mrs. James Turner and Mrs. Ether Taylor, both of Cape Girardeau; H. Keith Moberly and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCutchen of St. Louis.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Hickman high school in Columbia. The bride attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Another Prediction

Another night of basketball for Southeast Missouri has rolled around and our "Little Devil" will try his luck at predictions once again.

Since the start of the Christmas tournaments, we have had our difficulty in predicting the winner so we're going to take a long and hard look at tonight's action and tell you what we see.

We'll waste no more time... We have studied tonight's roundball action and here's how it looks from here....

Kennett at Jackson --- Well, all we see in this contest is another Indian victory for Coach Terry Turlington's squad. Jackson will suffer another defeat...Poor Leo ....Kennett 69, Jackson 56.

Holcomb at Southland --- This should prove to be some basketball contest.... We will have to go with the host Rebels, just because of their home court advantage. Southland 59, Holcomb 57.

Doniphan at Richland --- Those Dons fell early in the tournament at Bloomfield last week....Richland posted an upset before bowing out. What we're trying to say is ....This should be some game....and we just don't know who to pick....We'll go with the Rebs. Richland 71, Doniphan 67.

Parma at Portageville --- Those Pirates fooled everyone in Southeast Missouri Tuesday....Upsetting the Clarkton Reindeer.... We didn't think they had it in them....but the performance of James Gibson and Henry Lutes provided the punch as well as the leadership of Ken Womack. We think the Pirates have jelled....we hope so.... Parma 78, Portageville 58.

Bloomfield at Bernie --- If the Mules had any height to go along with Gary Craft.... They would be great....but that's a big if....Bloomfield can put a group of small one's on the floor that can run, shoot, and rebound....They have a big boy too. We see the Wildcats escaping the Mules. Bloomfield 51, Bernie 45.

Patton at Oak Ridge --- the Patton Panthers in this contest....They have a fine record....Patton 72, Oak Ridge 58.

Morehouse at New Madrid ---Coach Carroll Compton's Indians have the Tigers on their home court....so watch out Morehouse....We see a close battle with the Indians showing rebound strength. New Madrid 67, Morehouse 63.

Illmo-Scott City at Puxico ---Another real good match ....We think coach Smith's Indians have learned they are unbeatable and will be out for the Rams tonight ....Puxico 68, Illmo-Scott City 62.

Greenway at South Pemiscot --- We just don't know how to turn in this contest .... we see the Pems at the helm. South Pemiscot 58, Greenway 50.

Campbell at Clarkton --- Coach McMahon's Reindeer are down right mad about losing to the Pirates from Parma ....They'll take it out on the Camels tonight. Clarkton 70, Campbell 62.

Lilbourn at Gideon --- This will be a battle of defense between offense....We think the offense will win out in this contest. Gideon 46, Lilbourn 36.

Caruthersville at Senath-Hornersville --- Let's see ....Caruthersville's Tigers will take a close decision.... maybe by a TKO....Caruthersville 63, Senath-Hornersville 58.

Chaffee at East Prairie --- We will go with the home town squad....The Red Devils have been improving and may score a victory....but we think not. East Prairie 71, Chaffee 68.

Dexter at Poplar Bluff --- We see an upset in this contest....The Mules will find the Guethle brothers took much to cope with....Dexter 64, Poplar Bluff 63.

St. Henry at Oran --- If coach Bess has his other Johnson back in the lineup ....there is no telling how bad they'll beat the Trojans ....if he's out....it could prove to be a good game. Oran 89, St. Henry 60.

Perryville at Cape Central --- The Tigers from Cape have begun to play ball....The Pirates try ....Cape Central 81, Perryville 52.

That's about it for tonight.... We'll see you people at New Madrid tonight....We want to see the Tigers play again.

Hayti North Cagers Continue To Roll

By Ron Jaynes

DEERING - Hayti North high school raced to its 10th consecutive victory last night as they shot past Delta C-7's Chargers 70-56. The Indians have not lost a game this season and are currently ranked second in the Daily Standard basketball poll.

Hayti's sensationsl post man, Benny Johnson, hit over half of the Indian's points, as he poured in 43 points and pulled down 31 rebounds for his best performance of the season.

Johnson collected 28 points in the second half, scoring 14 points in each of the third and fourth quarters after collecting 10 in the first and five in the second.

Coach Norman Nelson's Indians returned all but two starters from last season's 15-7 team and have gone undefeated.

It was all Benny Johnson from the opening tip. He controlled the defensive rebounds and led his team into a 15-12 first quarter lead. He collected 10 of the Indian's points in the first quarter.

Deering used a full court zone press that fazed the Indians very little. Hayti's Benny Johnson, six foot four inch center, used his ball handling to penetrate the press for 43 points.

Deering posted a comeback surge at the start of the third period as it pulled to within one point of Coach Nelson's Indians but fell short as Johnson continued his fantastic scoring.

Billy Graham netted 21 points to take high scoring honors for the Chargers, who have a five and ten record.

Burden sacked up 24 points to take high scoring honors for the Chargers. White hit 18 for Hayti North.

Kennett Cager Stars For MU Freshman Team

COLUMBIA -- Back in action after a pair of 1966 victories, Missouri's freshman basketball team opens the new year in a re-match with St. Louis U. at St. Louis Saturday.

Coach Bob Price's young Missourians won a month ago, 92-82, on the excellent gunnery of guard Theo Franks (26) and forward Don Tomlinson (24). For the baby Bills, Joe Wiley collected 26.

Joining Franks (6-3) and Tomlinson (6-5) in the starting lineup will be Pete Helmbock (6-5), forward; Chuck Kundert (6-6), center; and Mike Seyfer (6-2), guard.

Gleaves Heads Dexter Clergy

Other officers named included Rev. Marshall Dark, pastor of the First Baptist Church, vice president; Ben Russell, First Presbyterian Church, secretary and Joe Tweddle, treasurer.

Roger Maris Expected To Report

ST. LOUIS AP -- Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals expect Roger Maris to report for spring training although some feel the former New York Yankee home run specialist may have considered retirement.

Cardinals' General Manager Bob Howsam said Thursday he visited with Maris in Kansas City last weekend and felt Maris had considered retirement, but has changed his mind.

Maris was traded to the Cardinals last month by New York with third baseman Charlie Smith going to the Yankees. In 1961, Maris hit a record 61 home runs for the Yankees.

Howsam also said eight members of Cardinals have been invited to report early for spring training in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Unemployment Pay in Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- The Missouri division of employment security during 1966 reported a total of 881,710 weeks of unemployment on which unemployment benefits to workers amounted to $28,695,491.20 from a total employer contribution of $45,418,917.66.

Scott 2,729 $82,753.98 and $227,094.59; Dunklin, 7,688, $230,306.43 and $172,591.89; Mississippi, 4,693 weeks, $134,278.86 and $59,044.59; New Madrid, 1,511 weeks, $49,671.70 and $63,586.48; Pemiscot, 5,692 weeks, $146,738.50 and $86,295.94; Stoddard, 7,117 weeks, $181,881.85 and $163,508.10.

COLUMBIA -- The best defense for Iowa State's awesome shooting here this Saturday afternoon might be for Mizzou's home management to criss-cross the top of the Cyclone hoop with several strands of heavy-test, nylon thread.

Three Cyclone starters will carry 50-plus shooting percentages into this 1:15 p.m. televised game. Coach Glen Anderson's finalists in the 1966 Big Eight tournament show a team accuracy mark of 49.1 from the field.

Date Corrected For Matthews-Scott Hill, Tenn. Basketball Game

Matthews' Pirates will travel to Scott Hill, Tenn., for a basketball game Saturday instead of Friday as previously reported.

MU Tigers To Host Boxing Tourney Opens Jan. 13

The armory will be the site of the annual Sikeston invitational boxing tournament sponsored by the Sikeston Jaycees and Elks clubs.

The tournament will start with preliminaries next Friday and will be followed by the championship rounds Jan. 14.

Three states will be represented with approximately 80 fighters in participation.

Sikeston's Elks boxers captured the team championship last year and are unbeaten so far this season, taking the tournament championship at Memphis in 1966.

It's the first of ten televised Big Eight games -- with Monte Moore and Bob Zenner describing the action to a 25-station network in seven states.

Missouri (2-9) jumps back into conference play against Kansas State Tuesday night at Manhattan. So the Bengals will be taking on the Big Eight Tourney's No. 2 and No. 3 teams in their first league tests.

Iowa State (7-3) is led by the hot-shooting trio of Don Smith, an all-tournament choice, John McGonigle and Dave Fleming. Smith, a 6-ft. 8 junior center, is averaging 25.4 points with a 53.9 percentage from the field. McGonigle has a 17-point average, hitting 52.9 percent. Fleming is a 9.8 point shooter with a 52 percent efficiency mark.

Lanky Raul Duarte isn't far behind at 9.2 and 48.5 -- while fifth starter Dave Hartman falls off to a 2.7 average and 40 percent. By contrast, Ol' Mizzou's best marksman -- Gene Jones -- has connected on just 40 percent of his tries, the same as the Cyclones' No. 5 man in shooting proficiency.

Jones will be at center in Coach Bob Vanatta's newly-revised fivesome -- as the Tigers try to end a distressing string of seven losses, all on the road. The 6-ft. 7 junior from Brookport, Ill., replaced Booker Brown at the pivot against Oklahoma State and scored a seasonal high of 22 before fouling out.

He'll be joined in the front court with Jim Chapman (6-6) and Tom Johnson (6-4) -- while Ron Coleman (6-1) and Dave Bennett (6-2) are guard starters. Mizzou can count on more reserve strength now that guard Rob Vanatta and forward Tom Miltenberger are back in action.

Vanatta missed eight games with an ankle injury, while Miltenberger sat out last season with a fractured ankle.

Sophomore John Weston, ill all season with a virus, officially was removed from the roster this week, after a physician's recommendation that the 6-ft. 6 forward not participate in basketball this year.

Going into the season, Weston was pegged for a starting job -- but never shook off the effects of a virus attack during Thanksgiving. He did not appear in any of M.U.'s games.

THE

Outlook for Business

PAUL F. LORENZ
Vice President
Ford Motor Company
AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY

Forecasting is always a hazardous undertaking, and right now, in the current period of rapidly changing economic and financial conditions, forecasting the short-run market outlook for the motor vehicle manufacturers is more hazardous than usual.

For four straight years, from 1962 through 1965, we enjoyed steady and rapid growth in our sales. Our main forecasting problem during most of that period was to estimate how much growth we could anticipate -- and generally, our expectations turned out to be low.

This year, the car market has fluctuated more than in other recent years. We started out, during the first quarter, with industry sales, including imports, at an all-time record annual rate of close to 10 million. In April and May - as a result of the traffic safety hearings in Washington along with higher income tax withholding and rising prices for consumer goods and services -- car sales fell off sharply to a 7.9 million annual rate. By July, however, sales had recovered to the 9 million level and remained there through the end of the 1966 model year.

The 1967 model year began at a very encouraging annual rate of 9.4 million for the first 20 days in October. At the end of the month, sales dropped to an 8.5 million level where they remained through the first 20 days of November. Total sales for the year will approximate 9 million - second only to last year's 9.3 million.

In order to forecast the outlook for the first half of this year, it is necessary to reach some conclusions about why car sales have been somewhat disappointing during the final quarter of 1966. Consumer buying power is clearly not the main problem. Unemployment is very low, and disposable income is still climbing. The cost of borrowing has risen, but as a general rule there has been adequate credit availability for retail car purchases during the period. Although living costs have been climbing, it appears to us that there is ample purchasing power to support car sales at a 9 million annual rate or even higher.

One clue is the fact that cars like Mustang and Cougar have continued to enjoy very strong demand while most other segments of the market are weaker. This tends to confirm our belief that people have the money to spend, but it also suggests that they are less willing to spend unless something unusually appealing comes along.

Our conclusion is that the major "minus" factor we may be facing is the confidence factor. If too many people become uncertain about their personal economic prospects for this year, if they are worried about the war in Vietnam and the possibility of higher taxes, if they don't know how much higher the cost of living will go, and if they begin to hear scattered reports of shorter workd weeks an plant layoffs, then car sales can be hurt. If people begin to feel that they may have to stretch a smaller income to cover bigger expenses, they are likely to postpone major purchases.

Where does this leave us as far as the next six months are concerned? We do not anticipate any future decline in car and truck sales. In our judgement, things will probably continue very much as they are. We expect that the economy will continue to expand through the first half in spite of obvious stresses and strains, however, the present mood of uncertainty may also continue and may continue to hold car purchases a little below what we would normally expect in a prosperous and growing economy. Specifically, we forecast car sales in the first half at an annual rate of a little more than 8.5 million, about 3 per cent below our estimate of normal 1967 demand.

Truck sales have also been below year-ago levels in recent months. After a record-breaking first half, truck sales dropped rather sharply in the third quarter of 1966. The estimated annual rate for the fourth quarter is 1.55 million compared with 1.7 million during the first half. With continued economic growth next year offset by an expected slowdown in the growth of business investment spending, we anticipate that truck sales will level off at a rate a little above 1.5 million during the next six months.

In summary, during the first half of this year we expect car and truck sales to remain at about their present levels. This would represent a moderate decline from the record high levels of 1965 and early 1966 -- but by any other measure, it would be a very good six months for our business.

King Calls for Eligibility Probe

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A demand for an immediate investigation of the eligibility of eight legislators marked the opening of Missouri's 1967 session.

Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-Clayton, minority floor leader, tossed in a resolution Wednesday asking that a committee of five be appointed to investigate eight St. Louis Democrats who allegedly do not live in their districts.

He called it "a shocking situation that threatens to rock the foundations of state government from top to bottom."

Until the situation is clarified he requested that the eight members not be allowed to vote.

Bluff Grant Approved

Couple Wed For 81 Years

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) —Ole and Otilla Sholberg hope their 81st wedding anniversary today will be a little more serene than the last one.

The two centenarians - Ole is 104 and Otilla is 102 — hosted newsmen and television cameramen last year, and sorted 1,200 letters of congratulation from around the world.

It was a little too much for Ole who has been confined to his bed, except for meals, since a week after the celebration.

But Mrs. Sholberg remains active, moving about by wheelchair, and doesn't even like to take an afternoon nap. She still does quite a big of reading from her Bible and her weekly Norwegian language newspaper.

Their 20 grandchildren have begat 46 great-grandchildren — and since the last anniversary four more great-great- grandchildren have pushed the fifth generation Sholberg's to nine.

Both Ole and Otilla came to Minnesota from Norway, Ole from the North Sea port town of Kristiansund where he helped his father fish, and Otilla from Skarnes.

Ole met his wife at the age of 15 when making his daily 16-mile hike to get the mail. He mustered enough courage to ask her for a drink of water.

His wife recalled once that, "it seemed Ole got very thirsty. He came back again."

The couple was married seven years later in the bride's family farm home — a log cabin — north of Underwood, Minn.

Their tidy home today — where they live with two daughters, Clara and the widowed Mrs. Frank Meter — is just 15 miles from their wedding site.

Ole is a retired farmer and carpenter. He built their home along with many others in the area and helped build Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Fergus Falls.

Last year the church dedicated a special service to the Sholberg's anniversary.

Otilla once summed up their marriage this way: "We have never had a serious quarrel. He has been a good man, and we have had a happy life. We will have a happy life."

March Draft Quota Set

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Pentagon called today for the induction of 11,900 men in March, keeping its induction rate at a reduced level for 1967.

All will go to the Army.

The March call is 1,000 higher than February's but short of the 15,600 being summoned for duty this month.

Miner Baptist Church

Clint Roberson, Pastor

Front of Church is in Background

Located in Miner, one block north of Highway 62 East on Route H (Blodgett Road), the Miner Baptist Church has been serving the people of Miner and Sikeston for four decades. It's spacious buildings provide adequate facilities for a completely Departmentized Sunday School and Training Union as well as comfortable quarters in which to worship. One of the best cared for age groups is the Nursery. Three sections provide care for infants and children through three years. Five Nursery Workers provide an excellent teaching program in Sunday School, and voluntary workers, both men and women, extend the Nursery Care through the Worship Services.

Another strong Department of the Sunday School is the Young Adults. The church basement is Sunday morning quarters for this group, ages through thirty-four. The Adult Department (35 years and over) is the largest Department of the Sunday School.

Miner Baptist has always been blessed with a splendid Church Music Program, with an outstanding choir helping to provide those present with a real worship experience each time the Church meets. A singing church has many happy experiences.

Rev. and Mrs. Clint Roberson have been with Miner Baptist for eight years this month, coming here from a five year pastorate with First Baptist, Cardwell, Missouri. Duties as Pastor began at Miner February 1, 1959. The Roberson's daughter, Mary Jayne, graduated from Sikeston High School in the Class of '61.

The congregation at Miner provided an especially happy Christmas for the Robersons, 1966. A Love Gift of $105, with instructions to use it for a trip back home to Texas, for a get-to-gether with the kinfolks in a Post Christmas Celebration. The Trip was made, and a very happy time by all.

JUST LI-ON AROUND at the office is Symba, six-week-old lion cub who sometimes accompanies his mistress, Mrs. William W. Rodriguez of St. Petersburg, Fla., to her father-in-law's law office, where she works as a secretary. At home Symba plays with the Rodriguezes' five poodles and laps up milk and strained baby food. At the age of five or six months he will probably move to a zoo.

Gas Pipeline to Be Laid in Butler

CHICAGO -- Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America will begin construction this summer on facilities to increase its daily delivery capacity by 234 million cubic feet for the 1967-68 winter heating season. The expansion program -- involving both the company's transmission and underground storage facilities has been approved by the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C.

Plans call for the addition of 236 miles of 36-inch diameter mainline loops in Arkansas, Illinois, Missouri, and Texas, and installation of 14,500 additional compressor horsepower at two company locations in Arkansas and Texas.

Cost of the project is estimated at $41.8 million.

In Missouri about 10 miles of 36-inch loop pipeline will be laid in Butler county.

I CAN'T TAKE IT WITH ME SO
I have to sell my home. It's an older house with large rooms and a lot more comfortable living space than appears on the outside. It has an efficiency apartment with inside and outside entrances that can help make the payments. An extra heavy roof and gas furnace are only 7 years old. There are 3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room and enclosed porch besides the apartment and a basement with another bath. The inside needs redecorating and I'm moving Jan. 20, so I've slashed the price nearly $1500 under appraisal value and will throw in the apartment furniture. I would consider trading on a smaller single family house that I could rent. Call C. D. Butler any week day at GR 1-4474 or GR 1-0034.

12	00 THE LIVING PRAYER

E.V. Lucas in Luck of the Year: What are the most delicious scents? Everyone could make a list. Mine would contain sweetbrier in the air, so vague and elusive that search cannot trace the source. Pine trees on a hot day. Mint sauce. Newly split wood. Cinnamon. Ripe apples. Tea just opened. Coffee just ground. A racing stable. A dairy farm. Cigars in a box. A circus. And I have said nothing of flowers!

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

Everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving; for then it is consecreted by the word of God and prayer. (I Timothy 4:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to study Thy Word and see that we have a part in Thy creative world. Whatever our abilities and gifts, teach us to look to Thee at all times for help and inspiration. In Jesus' name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: On a recent visit to my hometown I learned that my oldest brother's son is a homosexual. I discussed this with another brother and he said it was "unavoidable" -- that homosexuality is an inherited trait. This made sense to me because two of my sisters have sons who are extremely effeminate.

I know very little about the subject, but I have read magazine articles which said homosexuality is not inherited --- that it is the result of environment.

My husband and I have been married only a few months and we want a family, but the thought that I might have a homosexual child frightens me to death. Please tell me if homosexuality is inherited. ---IMMOBILIZED

Dear Immobilized: Most experts say homosexuality is not inherited -- that it is a psychological disorder and that the roots of the difficulty go back to early childhood. The youngster's feelings about one or both parents is usually the key factor.

To deny yourself a family because you are afraid of producing a homosexual child is poor thinking.

P.S. About those "effeminate" nephews -- don't jump to conclusions. They may be perfectly normal. A high-pitched voice, fluttery hands and traits often associated with girlishness are not proof of homosexuality. Outward appearances can be woefully misleading.

Dear Ann Landers: When a person starts to tell a joke and says, "If I've told you this before, please stop me" --- should I be honest and stop him or should I allow him to go ahead and repeat a long, drawn-out yarn that wasn't very funny the first time?

Please settle this once and for all. ---HEARD IT ALL BEFORE

Dear Heard It: If you are the only one in the audience, it is best to say, "Yes, you told me that one." If others are present, allow him to repeat, which is what he really wants to do. (This advice does not apply if "the person" is your husband. A good wife should listen to the same joke 500 times if necessary --- and laugh every time.)

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will print this letter because my husband reads your column. He is one of those people who knows everything. If I try to tell him something, he says I am making a mountain out of a molehill.

How should a wife feel when her husband takes her out on the dance floor and after a few turns pushes her into another man's arms and grabs his partner?

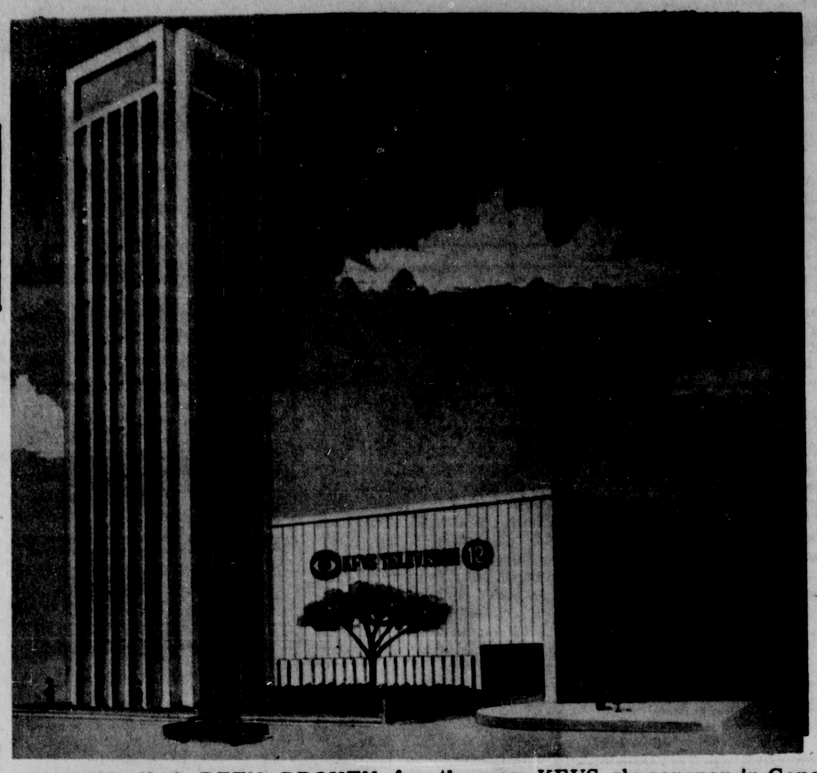

I always end up with a character who is two heads shorter than I am --- or a half-smashed, left-footed clunk. I feel sorry for some of the men I get pushed on, because I'm sure they would rather dance with the women they had before my husband horned in and threw me at them.

I have told my husband a hundred times if he wants to dance with another woman, it is O.K., with me, but please ask her before the music starts and spare me the pot luck. Am I unreasonable? ---MOUNTAIN OR MOLEHILL

Dear M or M: A husband shows no regard for his wife's feelings when he throws her at another man and grabs a new partner. I hope you'll tell him so. Or better still --- show him this column and let me tell him.

Want to say "no" to drinking without your buddies putting you down? Get clued in. Write for "Booze and You -- For Teen-Agers Only," by Ann Landers. Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper, enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

GROUND HAS BEEN BROKEN for the new KFVS skyscraper in Cape Girardeau.

13-Story Building for Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Ground has been broken for what will become Cape Girardeau's tallest building, the new home of KFVS-Television.

The structure, 13 stories high, will be erected in the 300 block of Broadway between the old Opera House and the old First Federal Building.

Turning the first spadefuls of earth were Oscar C. Hirsch, founder and president of Hirsch Broadcasting Company, and his son, James F. Hirsch. The building will be ready for occupany by June of 1968.

When completed the structure will house all of the television operations of KFVS-TV on the first three floors and on the 13th floor. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction and fireproof.

The top floor, rising 150 feet, will house KFVS-TV's microwave and other electronic equipment. Direct microwave contact can be maintained with all points in line of sight of the top, which will include a large area surrounding Cape Girardeau. Live television cameras will be maintained on the 13th floor as will a lighting system which will indicate the weather forecast to the area by colored lights.

The second level will contain a large television studio.

USAGETA, Fort Lee, Va. -- "So you win a few -- lose a few!" -- For the USA General Equipment Test Activity (USAGETA), Fort Lee, Virginia, it was a definite loss but the U.S. Army Medical Corps, it should prove quite the opposite!

On the morning of December 21, 1966, J. Richard Trout was a Private E-2 working in USAGETA's Methods Engineering Directorate. As the result of his selection for direct commission that same afternoon, he became Second Lieutenant Trout, USA Medical Corps!

Lt. Trout was commissioned in the office of USAGETA's commanding officer. Colonel Carl E. Bledsoe, USAGETA's commander, presided over the impressive ceremonies. Witnessing the event were Captain Martin Lowther, company commander, USAGETA Head & Headquarters Co., Lt. Joseph J. Cardosi, representing MED, Lt. Nelson E. Greene, acting adjutant, and several of Trout's enlisted friends.

On completing his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, the former enlisted man was assigned as a Physical Services Technician. The activity, USAGETA, is a major element of the U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command (USATECOM), Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Lt. Trout is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trout of Kewanee, Missouri. He was graduated from Kewanee High School in 1959. Trout was a key member of that school's basketball and baseball team.

In 1963, Lt. Trout received his BS in Education from Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark. In addition, he obtained his Master of Science degree in the field of Education from the same institution in 1966.

Lt. Trout is now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he is enrolled in the Medical Services Basic Officer Training Course. When the course is completed, the recently commissioned Second Lieutenant expects to receive a foreign duty assignment.

U.S. ARMY, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- A second large contingent from the Army's 9th Infantry Division has arrived in Vietnam. Private First Class John D. Netteler, 20, whose wife, Ginger, lives on Route 2, Sikeston, Mo., accompanied the division's 39th Infantry from Ft. Riley, Kan., where it was formed and trained.

Pvt. Netteler is a rifleman in Company A of the infantry's 4th Battalion.

If you're looking for a girl to marry, steer clear of Dolcedo on the Italian Riviera. Should you take one of the village girls away, you'll have to pay the local marriage tax -- from two to 20 dollars depending upon your auto or other signs of wealth. As Mayor Angeloe Benza says: "It's a good old custom. After all, our girls are beautiful and make good wives. Strangers are lucky to get them."

Proceeds of the tax are always given to the local bachelors -- to pay for a consolation party.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE UNUSUAL DEPOSIT

If Jim was a tired businessman, it was from running back and forth to his bank to deposit all the money he made. While he didn't mind being taxed from so satisfying a task, he discovered to his chagrin that it wasn't without hidden pitfalls. While stashing away a sack of loot into a night depository one evening, his thumb caught in the rotating cylinder.

Yowling as if he had just been put into a kettle of hot water, Jim sued the bank for his poor injured thumb.

"Because of that contraption," he complained to a judge, "I can't use it any more. What's more, since I used it in my business, I couldn't be in a worse predicament if I was a hitchhiker."

"That's too bad," responded a bank official, "but it's not our fault Jim got his thumb caught in so simple a mechanism as our night depository. After all, it's a depository for money and not thumbs."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the bank pay for the injuries to Jim's thumb?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Jim's injury was no doubt painful, a person cannot hold another person responsible for his injuries unless he can show that his injuries were due to the other person's fault. In this case, Jim failed to show any fault on the part of the bank. The night depository was a simple mechanism to operate.

Answer to Previous Puzzle

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1927, 600 United States Marines and several war vessels were sent to Nicaragua to protect American interests.

On this date

In 1412, Joan of Arc was born.

In 1919, former President Theodore Roosevelt died.

In 1941, President Roosevelt enunciated the four freedoms in what was called "An Arsenal of Democracy" message to Congress.

Ten years ago—After a series of raids across the Northern Ireland border by the Irish Republican army, Irish Prime Minister John Costello condemned all such efforts to unite the six counties of Northern Ireland with the Republic of Ireland by force.

Five years ago — President Kennedy told Ohio Democrats at a dinner in Columbus that his administration was pledged to progress in medical care and in education. The chief executive also asked for support for his program to combat mental retardation.

One year ago—Soviet troubleshooter Alesandr Shelpin headed for Hanoi on a mission which observers speculated could well affect the Vietnamese War.

—Goethe, German poet, 1749-1832.

Elsie Ball Oran Artist Dies Thursday

ORAN -- Miss Elsie Katherine Ball, 76, died at 2:10 p.m. Thursday in a Cape Girardeau hospital, where she had been a patient since Dec. 28.

Born Nov. 4, 1890, at Cassady, Miss Ball was well known throughout Southeast Missouri for her interest in art.

She entered paintings in art exhibits at Cape Girardeau, Sikeston, Poplar Bluff and Memphis.

She also worked for many years on the Oran News and was a member of the First Baptist church, where she was in charge of the Sunday school nursery for many years.

The body is at the Earl J. Smith Funeral Home.

Services will be at 2 p.m. Saturday at the First Baptist church with the Rev. Calvin Wilkins officiating.

Burial will be in Forest Hills cemetery near Morley.

Martha Jefferson Dies Today

CHARLESTON -- Mrs. Martha Ann Jefferson, route three, died today at 3:45 a.m. in the Missouri Delta Community hospital, where she had been a patient 11 days.

She was born in Clarksdale, Miss., and had lived in Mississippi county 30 years.

Surviving are her husband, John Jefferson; two daughters, Mrs. Peolar Moore, St. Louis and Mrs. Mary Newcomb, Ullin, Ill.; one son, William Armstrong, Homestead, Fla.; one brother, Ben Delmar, Caruthersville; one stepson, Rufus Armstrong, Charleston; 30 grandchildren and 37 great-grandchildren.

The body is at Sparks Funeral Home.

tors — including "more than one bidder (who) has been a known LBJ detractor" — also are seeking the painting as a political and historical collector's item.

Hurd said he spent six to eight weeks on the initial painting. "I just never spent so much time on a painting in my life. Perhaps I was overanxious to make it a success."

"I'm just sorry I flunked the job," he continued. "I won't say it's unsuccessful. I don't agree. I'm sorry they considered it unsuccessful."

Hurd's brother-in-law, artist Andrew Wyeth said in Chadds Ford, Pa., Thursday night that Hurd was "practically bludgeoned" into doing the portrait.

"Peter had refused to do it," Wyeth said. "Then at a dinner in Washington, the President introduced him to some dignitaries by saying, 'Here's the man who's going to do my portrait.' Peter was dumfounded."

Mrs. Carpenter cited the size of the portrait, the background of the brilliantly lighted Capitol and the inconsistency of the painting style with other White House portraits as the three principal reasons for its rejection.

She said no other portrait of Johnson is currently underway.

Mrs. Alberta Miller, both of Chicago; Mrs. Marie Hunt, Mae Lee and Marilyn Kay Lambert, all of Sikeston.

Jennings died as the result of an accident Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. on a county road four miles southeast of Advance on old highway 25, when his tractor turned over on him as the vehicle was going up a steep embankment into a corn field.

He had a stalled combine in the field and was on his way to bring the vehicle to the storage shed.

A brother, Roy Jennings, was in the field.

James Jennings was single and lived alone.

He was born June 30, 1925. Besides his brother other survivors are his father, C. C. Jennings, route two; a second brother who is in the army, and a sister, living in Idaho.

The body was taken to the Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

Eulas Redden, 62, driving a 1955 Ford pickup truck, lost control of his truck Wednesday at 9:20 a.m. on highway 60, five miles east of Charleston.

The vehicle went down a levee and struck a telephone pole.

He received head injuries, and a passenger, Maudie Dinsmore, 58, East Prairie, suffered minor injuries.

Both were taken to the St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo.

Canadian Get Bonus For Families

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians will pocket about $608 million in tax-free government payments this fiscal year, just for having families.

The payments are made under Canada's family allowance and youth allowance programs. Many people lump them as the "baby bonus." Some Americans have suggested a similar U.S. plan as part of antipoverty planning.

The payoff to parents is a substantial slice of Canadian government costs. For comparison: Total expenditures by the Department of National Defense for the same year ending next March 31, are estimated at $1.57 billion.

Aimed at equalizing opportunities for children, the family allowance law went into effect in 1945, when Canada's population was about 12 million. The postwar baby crop and immigration have pushed the population to 20 million, making the allowance one of the main planks in Canada's social welfare structure.

At the start, the program provided payments of $5 a month for each child from birth to age 5, $6 up to the 10th birthday, $7 to the 13th and $8 to the 16th.

This was changed in 1957 to $6 a month from birth to the 10th birthday and $8 from there to the 16th.

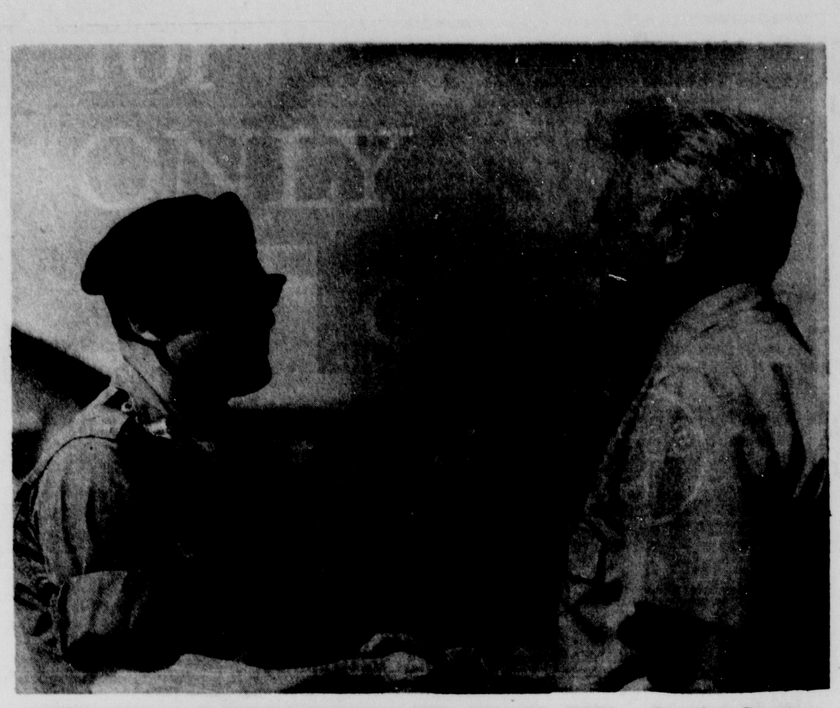

A sliding scale that reduced payments for fifth and successive children in any one family, written into the original law, was removed in 1949.

A government official said the thinking behind this scale was that a larger family could cut the clothing bill by using hand-me-downs. This didn't hold true in practice, he said, "and you don't hand down food, either."

So present regulations contain no riders about the size of any individual family.

The youth allowance program was enacted in 1964. It provides $10 a month for any boy or girl 16 or 17 who still attends school.

Family and youth allowance payments are not counted as income for tax purposes. The family breadwinner is given a deduction of $350 a year for each dependent child under 16. The deduction jumps to $550 after that, even though the child qualifies for youth allowance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,

R. C. Martin says:

The American people should have only two major concerns. The first and foremost concern of any individual should be to please God. Second, he should be engaged in a desperate struggle to save his country; to perserve the human rights that were so hard won and given to us by our forefathers.

Strong emphasis is being put on education, and many men who are supposedly endowed with great worldly wisdom, possesses high degrees of knowledge, and bask in echelons of intelligence tell us that education is the key to the American dream. And when everybody is education most of the problems of the world will simply go away. It is true, to a high degree, that the lack of education poses a great threat, and is one of the greatest problems of the world, and educators are right in saying so.

But, is it not also true that the acquiring of knowledge and the indoctrinating of a philosophy is education in itself? And men everywhere regardless of the degree of their learning without the moral fiber and spiritual stability to attach themselves to a great and just cause are not really educated.

Which is the educated man, the one who possesses a masters degree in mathematics and uses his mathematical knowledge to figure ways and means to defraud his fellowmen, or the man who knows hardly enough mathematics to dig a two by four ditch, yet he digs in behalf of humanity? The doctors who are charging outrageous fees; who are more concerned about the almighty dollar than they are about the health of their patients. Or the lawyer who cannot be trusted, who will tell the ignorant of the law anything to earn a fee. Or a judge who can be swayed with worldly means. Or a "Supreme Court" that makes atheistic decisions in direct discord to the principles of its Countries Constitution. Or a preacher, for that matter, who preaches for worldly fame and not for the souls of men. Are these the educated ones? Is this kind of knowledge education, actions motivated by strange desires? Desires that are completely alien to the principles of God.

Only those men who have associated and dedicated themselves to a high and noble and just cause are truly educated. And when it has become possible for educators to plant or instill in the mind and heart of the masses of humanity that education is basically a philosophy and degree of education is generally marked by the individuals degree of desire to be attached to a just and noble cause.

The men who occupy the seats of high learning have not, in my opinion, hit upon the basic need of man.

When mankind can be taught and learn that education is not necessarily the acquiring of knowledge, but education is the art of making the proper application with ones immediate knowledge; and if any educator can learn this himself and master the technique of getting it across to his pupils, he will have rendered his fellowman a most needed service.

Sincerely,
R. C. Martin

Esoterically speaking,
Shadows decline
Casting pale shadows
On pale hands
That move in and out,
Saying with sad finality,
All is finished.
And yet hoping, as the eyes speak,
Watching glittering goldfish
Swim languidly in the sun.

". . . In as much as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

St. Matthew 25:40

Air Force Lt. Col. David B. O'Hara has a deep Christian concern for all people. Like other soldiers in Viet Nam, his heart went out to the children. One in particular caught his eye, a cheerful little urchin who was always out in front of the Saigon villa which he shared with 14 other officers.

The boy would get him taxis and Dave would give him a few piasters. Each day, despite the language barrier, Dave would learn more about the boy. His name was Nguyen Dinh Huu but he told Dave, "call me Tiger." His father had been killed early in the war. His mother had abandoned him, and 13-year-old "Tiger" had lived on the streets of Saigon for three years.

Dave had a 13-year-old son of his own back in the states.

With the consent of the other officers, "Tiger" moved into the villa. He was scrubbed, cured of the bacteria infection on his body, given clothes and chores. Then Protestant O'Hara put his little Vietnamese Buddhist friend in a French Catholic school.

Thanks to Dave's faith and the generosity of fellow officers and their families, "Tiger's" education and future is as secure as it can be in that war torn country. Dave said of "Tiger", "He did me a lot of good. The time spent with that kid was great therapy."

Dalton Denies Report

JEFFERSON CITY AP --- Former Gov. John M. Dalton denied today that he has any plans to run for office--either for U. S. senator or governor.

"If I decide to run for anything, I'll let all of you know," he said.

His comment came in reply to a story in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat indicating Dalton might run against U. S. Sen. Edward V. Long or Gov. Warren E. Hearnes in 1968. All are Democrats.

Long already has filed for re-election.

Dalton charged that the story of his intentions was "planted" by someone who wants to get him to run against Long.

The St. Louis Globe - Democrat quoted Dalton as admitting Thursday that he may run against one or the other but saying "It will be a couple of months before I make a definite decision."

The fact that a vigorous fight may result within the party if he files for either post will not make him change his mind, Mr. Dalton said.

"A good campaign fight does not bother me. You don't have to be afraid of a fight if you're clean. There's one thing no one can question and that is my honesty."

Mr. Dalton said he has been urged by many friends to get into the Democratic primary next year and seek a public office.

He also indicated some supporters of Gov. Hearnes had tried to get him to run against Sen. Long while some friends of Sen. Long are urging him to file against Gov. Hearnes.

The thought of becoming active in the political arena again and of making a vigorous campaign is being given "due consideration," Mr. Dalton declared, and a decision will be made in a few months.

Actually, Mr. Dalton has never been "deactivated" politically since he left office in January, 1965. He has kept in touch with party leaders and of late has more and more been seen in political gatherings throughout the state.

He served four years as Attorney General and four as Governor from 1957 until 1965. Mr. Dalton resumed his law practice after that in Jefferson City and also took up his residence here. He formerly lived in Kennett, in Southeast Missouri.

It is public knowledge here that Mr. Dalton and Gov. Hearnes have little love for each other. However, there is a friendship between Mr. Dalton and Sen. Long.

Sen. Long already has filed for another term, but Gov. Hearnes has not. However most observers believe he is a sure shot to try for another four years and become the first Missouri Governor to serve eight consecutive years.

Under a drive directed by Mr. Hearnes two years ago, the legislators and voters passed a constitutional amendment lifting the one - term limit from the Governor's office.

City School Administrators Unveil $1,700,000 Program

School administrators in an open meeting Thursday night at the high school building outlined to the school board appointed citizens advisory council needs of the school system.

Chief topics of discussion included an increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school, a gymnasium and an auditorium, expansion of facilities at the high school and a reorganization of grade blocks taught at junior high school and the high school.

The plans outlined are possible solutions to meet the educational needs of the growing system, Supt. Lynn Twitty said.

The council is consulted by the school board before new plans are effected.

None of the plans discussed represent final decisions by the school board, Twitty said.

The purpose of the Thursday meeting was to feel the pulse of the community after tentative plans were outlined. The council gave the school board its vote of confidence after hearing the proposals estimated to cost $1,700,000.

The new bonding capacity of the school district will be $1,300,000 in April. This amount can be obtained by the board with a 20-year bond issue, which would be accompanied by a higher interest rate, Twitty said.

Another $200,000 is expected to be received in federal funds through the state for expansion of the vocational education program.

A remaining $200,000 poses a problem. The board has discussed plans to raise the money with the city administration, but no definite plans have been outlined.

Twitty said the $1,300,000 would be available without a tax increase.

An outstanding eight-year, $600,000 bond issue for expansion of the high school will be retired within this fiscal year, allowing money that was used to pay off this debt to be diverted for other purposes, Twitty explained.

The new bond issue would probably carry an interest rate of about 4 per cent. The eight-year issue carried a 2.56 interest rate.

The presentation Thursday night did not include a detailed breakdown on how much money would be spent on each proposal.

It was pointed out that $400,000 - half from federal funds and half from matched funds - would be spent for the expansion of the vocational education program.

The vocational education plans call for construction of a new building for teaching building trades, plus additions to the auto mechanics and the business education buildings.

How the remaining $1,100,000 world be earmarked has not been decided. But it would be used for the following purposes, Twitty said:

1) An increase in teachers' salaries.

2) A multi-purpose, well-equipped gymnasium. The gym is expected to be round with collapsible bleachers and facilities for physical education classes.

3) An auditorium for teaching fine arts - speech and dramatics - and for assemblies and plays.

4) Construction of a new elementary school at Ables and Marian at the southeast corner of the city limits. Plans called for vacating of the Airport school. The lease on the Airport school expires in two years, and it is expensive to maintain, Twitty continued.

5) Expansion of the cafetorium and the kitchen facilities at the high school. Plans in the offing call for addition of a bakery and storage space to enable all food served in the school system to be prepared at the high school cafetorium.

6) Addition of two more rooms to the mathematics and science departments at the high school. Two rooms are being added to these departments.

7) Addition of a second level with more stacks in the school library.

Plans for shifting the sixth grade to junior high school and moving the ninth grade into high school also were discussed.

The system has elementary grades 1-6, junior high 7-9, and high 10-12.

By moving the sixth grade into junior high and placing pupils where they will have longer time blocks of related subjects closer to each other, the program will be easier to coordinate, Harold Kiehne, director of secondary education said.

The ninth grade's move into the high school would result in some overcrowding, Kiehne said.

It would be necessary to curtail physical education activities until additional accommodations are constructed.

An entire reorganization of the band, music and the national forensic league would be effected in the early stages, Kiehne explained.

One of the chief advantages of moving the ninth grade to the high school is to eliminate shuttling there by foreign language and shop students.

Twitty said the school board probably will make the final decisions on the plans within the next two months.

Court Permits Legislators to Decide

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) - The Georgia Supreme Court in a 5-2 decision ruled today that the legislature may elect the next governor in the deadlocked race between Democratic Lester G. Maddox and Republican Howard H. (Bo). Callaway, an authoritative source said.

The tribunal upheld a lower court decision.

The Associated Press learned of the decision prior to the official announcement, which was delayed until copies of the opinion could be printed.

$1,950 Theft in Miner

The burglary was discovered this morning by Gerald Presley, store owner.

Taken were cartons of cigarettes, shotgun shells and meat, including a side of beef, indicating that the burglars must have used a truck to haul away the loot.

It has not been determined how entry was gained. The front door had been forced open and tire tracks were found in front of the store.

FAA Voids Lights For City Airport

The city recently received notification from the Federal Aviation Agency that the application for $17,500 in federal funds to install new lights at the airport runway was rejected.

The city had planned to install new lights on the runway and use the existing runway lights on the taxiway, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Cost of the new lights was estimated to cost $35,000.

"We will resubmit the application to the FAA," Miller said.

Both the taxiway and the runway are 4,300 feet long.

The application was made last spring, Miller said.

Coach Lambert Killed

THIS IS THE BATTERED ruins of a car driven by Nathan W. Lambert, 28-year-old Sikeston coach. Lambert was killed instantly when the vehicle crashed into a stalled truck on highway 60, a half mile east of Sikeston.

Sedan Strikes Truck

Nathan W. Lambert, 28-year-old Sikeston junior high school and high school coach, was killed instantly this morning when his car crashed into a stalled truck on highway 60 one half mile east of Sikeston. He was alone.

He was one of two persons killed in highway accidents in Southeast Missouri overnight.

Lambert served as assistant basketball coach in high school basketball and as junior high school assistant football coach.

He had attended a high school wrestling match at the armory last night.

He was killed when his westbound car crashed into the truck at 1:45 a.m. The car, a 1965 Pontiac four-door sedan, was demolished. This was his first year as coach in the Sikeston public school system.

Nathan W. Lambert

Lambert lived at 318 Luther St.

His car struck a parked 1966 GMC tractor-trailer, driven by Erskine Scott, 33, Munford, Tenn.

The stalled truck had flares and signal lights flashing according to the state highway patrol. John Scott, a brother of Erskine Scott, 49, Brighton, Tenn., a truck passenger, was slightly injured.

Lambert's body was taken to the Smith Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Lambert was born June 21, 1938, son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Lambert.

He graduated from Sikeston high school in 1958, where he starred in basketball in his junior and senior years. He played forward and was the team's top scorer in his senior year.

He was a member of a team that went to the state tournament in 1958 and received a basketball scholarship to Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Texas, where he graduated.

He taught and coached in O'Bannon high school at New Madrid five years.

He was a member of the West End Baptist church. In 1962 he married Lora Jackson, who survived.

Other survivors are two children, Debra and Vernon; his mother, Mrs. Sadie Lambert, Sikeston; six brothers, Charles Lambert in Army, Walter Lambert with the Navy in Guam, McKinley, Charles Howard, Bobby Joe and Linzie Lambert, all of Sikeston; five sisters, Mrs. Juanita Collins,

Hanoi Repeats Terms

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Vietnam's radio broadcast today an "authorized" statement repeating Premier Pham Van Dong's description of Hanoi's four-point stand on the Vietnam war as a "basis" for settlement.

The terse announcement left in doubt whether it was meant to encourage or to dampen hopes for negotiations aroused by the North Vietnamese premier's interview with Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, printed Wednesday.

The statement was preceded by complaints that some newspapers and broadcasts in "capitalist nations" had distorted the premier's statements, but no specific instance of distortion was given.

The broadcast said: "On this matter the Vietnam news agency has been authorized to make the following statement: The original text of what Premier Pham Van Dong told Mr. Harrison Salisbury was: 'The position of the four points of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam is a basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems."

Premier Dong's original statement was interpreted by some sources to mean a measure of retreat from the hard line, all-or-nothing stand of the four points which have been the main obstacles to negotiations. He was quoted as saying the four points were not necessarily preconditions to talks.

The four points include demands that the United States withdraw all its troops and installations from South Vietnam, recognize the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Vietnam, end all acts of war against the north, and permit settlement by the Vietnamese themselves, without foreign interference, "in accordance with the program" of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong in the south.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a letter to a North Carolina student leader, said the United States is ready now to meet with Hanoi representatives either publicly or secretly to work out "arrangements for a just solution." He said there would be no difficulty having the Viet Cong's views presented, but rejected the demand that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front be the only spokesman for the South Vietnamese people.

The Hanoi premier's interview touched off a flurry of speculation about North Viet Nam's interest in some sort of negotiations, and the speculation was intensified Thursday by remarks of the head of Hanoi's mission in Paris.

Mai Van Bo, head of that mission, asked about his government's attitude should Washington order an end to the bombing of the north, replied that he believed "such a proposal would be examined and studied by the Hanoi authorities, too."

He accused the United States of repeatedly violating the 1954 Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam, and insisted that the four-point demands remained the basis of Hanoi's approach to the problem. He demanded a prompt and unconditional halt to U.S. bombing of the north, but added that the United States had no right to ask for any reciprocal action from North Vietnam.

The U.S. State Department said Thursday the United States was prepared to order a halt to all bombing of the north as soon as Hanoi gave assurance, privately or otherwise, that the move would result in scaling down of hostilities by the Communist side.

Metal Steeple Caps Church's Building

This heavenward thrust of gleaming metal came in answer to the congregation's prayers, plans and toil for a completed church building.

The steeple was the final stage of a building plan extending back to 1948 when the church was organized.

A basement was started in 1948.

The educational building then was completed.

The sanctuary was finished in 1961.

The steeple, weighing 2,250 pounds, was put into place yesterday.

The church now owns a $200,000 plant, boosts 425 members and an average Sunday School attendance of 200.

The prefabricated steeple, constructed in Campbell, Ky., was towed by motor to the church site. It cost $6,000.

A memorial gift, the steeple was provided by two New Madrid women members of the church -- Mrs. Bess Copeland in memory of her husband, Fred Copeland, and Mrs. Illa Perry in memory of her husband, Paul Crouthers.

UP IT GOES! This aluminum steeple was placed atop the Baptist church in New Madrid yesterday, completing a building program. The spire was swung into place from a cable attached to a crane operated by the Ray Clinton Construction Company.

Artist Reviews Portrait Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The artist whose commissioned portrait of President Johnson was rejected by the First Family says he had to work with a sleeping subject and turn aside Mrs. Johnson's suggestions on how to paint the work.

And now, says artist Peter Hurd, he's lost interest in a second and smaller portrait he was doing of the President.

But even if the Johnsons don't like the first effort, there apparently is a demand for it from a museum and private collectors.

News of the turndown became public Thursday and was confirmed by Mrs. Johnson's press secretary Elizabeth Carpenter, who said the President "didn't like it and neither did she (Mrs. Johnson."

The portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring. The Washington Post said Mrs. Johnson told Hurd that a stormy scene which ensued was so unforgettable she didn't expect ever to endure anything so grim again.

Hurd said that when the portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring the President "didn't like it a darn bit" and described it as "the ugliest thing I ever saw."

"The President was terribly tired," said the artist, who quoted Mrs. Johnson as saying the chief executive had been under tremendous pressure during the weekend. But Hurd said he and his wife spent the night at the Johnson ranch in Texas and otherwise were treated cordially.

Hurd, known for his southwestern landscapes and portraits, said from his New Mexico ranch the fact that he turned down changes suggested by the Johnsons could have been responsible for their rejecting the portrait.

"I just couldn't follow their suggestions and at the same time not lose quality in the painting," Hurd said.

He said Mrs. Johnson wanted it reduced in size from 40 inches by 48 inches to 30 inches by 36 inches.

"She was most kind, most cordial," Hurd said. "But some of her ideas I just couldn't carry out, like making the Capitol Dome misty and hazy."

The sharply-defined Capitol is midway down the left side of the painting, in a scale putting it far behind Johnson. The President is standing with a book in his hand and is depicted from about the waist up. He wears a serious expression on the three-quarter view of his face.

Hurd said he was forced to work mostly from photographs because he was permitted only one 30-minute sitting with Johnson — and that when the President "was terribly fatigued from a very busy week in Washington" and fell asleep, said the artist. "He was terribly sleepy, dead beat, bushed.

"I knew the President couldn't possibly give me much time," said Hurd, "but I hoped for a little more than I got from him. You don't begin to get into it in a half hour."

Hurd, who two months ago was working on a second Johnson portrait said Thursday he "just plain lost interest" in it because all he had to work from was a widely distributed photograph of the President.

"The only one I'd look at was in every darn bureaucrat's office in America," Hurd said. The unfinished painting showed Johnson at his desk, hands in front of him.

The larger portrait is reportedly to go in display in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday at the Gallery of Fine Arts and is also sought by the National Portrait Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution.

Legislators Take Break

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Members of the 1967 Missouri Legislature have gone home for the weekend and many of them, presumably, will spend at least part of the time studying Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' billion dollar budget.

They got the 229-page budget books Thursday, the second day of the new session.

When House members return Monday they may get the report of the Rules Committee. And if they adopt the new rules, Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, said he would name the chairmen and members of the 37 standing committees.

One of the big questions is whom he will name for the all-important appropriations committee. It works harder and longer than any other.

The Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee, meanwhile, is busy checking and rechecking the budget figures in order to be as much help as possible to the appropriations committee.

Dexter Hospital Dedication To Be Sunday

DEXTER -- The Dexter Memorial hospital building fund program will hold a dedication and ground breaking ceremony for the new hospital Sunday at 2 p.m. on the site on One Mile Road off of highway 60.

What the hospital will mean to families, to a patient from a physician's point of view, and what it means from the ministry of healing will be discussed.

Four Accident Victims Treated

Four accident victims were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital, Wednesday.

Sandburg Avoids Ado On 89th Birthday

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) - There was no cake, no interview and no to-do for Carl Sandburg today on the poet-biographer's 89th birthday.

A few friends were expected to drop by Connemara, Sandburg's goat farm in this plateau country of the Blue Ridge Mountains, but nothing formal was planned.

"He won't eat cake so there's no sense in baking a birthday cake," said Paula, his wife, whom he married 58 years ago. "He never has liked cake or fancy things."

Sandburg, born in Galesburg, Ill., has done little writing since he was hospitalized in September 1965 with an intestinal disorder.

He spends most of the morning hours in bed. But in the afternoons, wearing baggy trousers, loose sweater and soft shoes, he putters about the big white frame building.

City School Administrators Unveil $1,700,000 Program

School administrators in an open meeting Thursday night at the high school building outlined to the school board appointed citizens advisory council needs of the school system.

Chief topics of discussion included an increase in teachers' salaries, construction of a new elementary school, a gymnasium and an auditorium, expansion of facilities at the high school and a reorganization of grade blocks taught at junior high school and the high school.

The plans outlined are possible solutions to meet the educational needs of the growing system, Supt. Lynn Twitty said.

The council is consulted by the school board before new plans are effected.

None of the plans discussed represent final decisions by the school board, Twitty said.

The purpose of the Thursday meeting was to feel the pulse of the community after tentative plans were outlined. The council gave the school board its vote of confidence after hearing the proposals estimated to cost $1,700,000.

The new bonding capacity of the school district will be $1,300,000 in April. This amount can be obtained by the board with a 20-year bond issue, which would be accompanied by a higher interest rate, Twitty said.

Another $200,000 is expected to be received in federal funds through the state for expansion of the vocational education program.

A remaining $200,000 poses a problem. The board has discussed plans to raise the money with the city administration, but no definite plans have been outlined.

Twitty said the $1,300,000 would be available without a tax increase.

An outstanding eight-year, $600,000 bond issue for expansion of the high school will be retired within this fiscal year, allowing money that was used to pay off this debt to be diverted for other purposes, Twitty explained.

The new bond issue would probably carry an interest rate of about 4 per cent. The eight-year issue carried a 2.56 interest rate.

The presentation Thursday night did not include a detailed breakdown on how much money would be spent on each proposal.

It was pointed out that $400,000 - half from federal funds and half from matched funds - would be spent for the expansion of the vocational education program.

The vocational education plans call for construction of a new building for teaching building trades, plus additions to the auto mechanics and the business education buildings.

How the remaining $1,100,000 world be earmarked has not been decided. But it would be used for the following purposes, Twitty said:

1) An increase in teachers' salaries.

2) A multi-purpose, well-equipped gymnasium. The gym is expected to be round with collapsible bleachers and facilities for physical education classes.

3) An auditorium for teaching fine arts - speech and dramatics - and for assemblies and plays.

4) Construction of a new elementary school at Ables and Marian at the southeast corner of the city limits. Plans called for vacating of the Airport school. The lease on the Airport school expires in two years, and it is expensive to maintain, Twitty continued.

5) Expansion of the cafetorium and the kitchen facilities at the high school. Plans in the offing call for addition of a bakery and storage space to enable all food served in the school system to be prepared at the high school cafetorium.

6) Addition of two more rooms to the mathematics and science departments at the high school. Two rooms are being added to these departments.

7) Addition of a second level with more stacks in the school library.

Plans for shifting the sixth grade to junior high school and moving the ninth grade into high school also were discussed.

The system has elementary grades 1-6, junior high 7-9, and high 10-12.

By moving the sixth grade into junior high and placing pupils where they will have longer time blocks of related subjects closer to each other, the program will be easier to coordinate, Harold Kiehne, director of secondary education said.

The ninth grade's move into the high school would result in some overcrowding, Kiehne said.

It would be necessary to curtail physical education activities until additional accommodations are constructed.

An entire reorganization of the band, music and the national forensic league would be effected in the early stages, Kiehne explained.

One of the chief advantages of moving the ninth grade to the high school is to eliminate shuttling there by foreign language and shop students.

Twitty said the school board probably will make the final decisions on the plans within the next two months.

Court Permits Legislators to Decide

ATLANTA, GA. (AP) - The Georgia Supreme Court in a 5-2 decision ruled today that the legislature may elect the next governor in the deadlocked race between Democratic Lester G. Maddox and Republican Howard H. (Bo). Callaway, an authoritative source said.

The tribunal upheld a lower court decision.

The Associated Press learned of the decision prior to the official announcement, which was delayed until copies of the opinion could be printed.

$1,950 Theft in Miner

The burglary was discovered this morning by Gerald Presley, store owner.

Taken were cartons of cigarettes, shotgun shells and meat, including a side of beef, indicating that the burglars must have used a truck to haul away the loot.

It has not been determined how entry was gained. The front door had been forced open and tire tracks were found in front of the store.

FAA Voids Lights For City Airport

The city recently received notification from the Federal Aviation Agency that the application for $17,500 in federal funds to install new lights at the airport runway was rejected.

The city had planned to install new lights on the runway and use the existing runway lights on the taxiway, City Manager W. Raymert Miller said today.

Cost of the new lights was estimated to cost $35,000.

"We will resubmit the application to the FAA," Miller said.

Both the taxiway and the runway are 4,300 feet long.

The application was made last spring, Miller said.

Metal Steeple Caps Church's Building

This heavenward thrust of gleaming metal came in answer to the congregation's prayers, plans and toil for a completed church building.

The steeple was the final stage of a building plan extending back to 1948 when the church was organized.

A basement was started in 1948.

The educational building then was completed.

The sanctuary was finished in 1961.

The steeple, weighing 2,250 pounds, was put into place yesterday.

The church now owns a $200,000 plant, boosts 425 members and an average Sunday School attendance of 200.

The prefabricated steeple, constructed in Campbell, Ky., was towed by motor to the church site. It cost $6,000.

A memorial gift, the steeple was provided by two New Madrid women members of the church -- Mrs. Bess Copeland in memory of her husband, Fred Copeland, and Mrs. Ila Perry in memory of her husband, Paul Crouthers.

UP IT GOES! This aluminum steeple was placed atop the Baptist church in New Madrid yesterday, completing a building program. The spire was swung into place from a cable attached to a crane operated by the Ray Clinton Construction Company.

Coach Lambert Killed

Sedan Strikes Truck

Nathan W. Lambert, 28-year-old Sikeston junior high school and high school coach, was killed instantly this morning when his car crashed into a stalled truck on highway 60 one half mile east of Sikeston. He was alone.

He was one of two persons killed in highway accidents in Southeast Missouri overnight.

Lambert served as assistant basketball coach in high school basketball and as junior high school assistant football coach.

He had attended a high school wrestling match at the armory last night.

He was killed when his westbound car crashed into the truck at 1:45 a.m. The car, a 1965 Pontiac four-door sedan, was demolished. This was his first year as coach in the Sikeston public school system.

Nathan W. Lambert

Lambert lived at 318 Luther St.

His car struck a parked 1966 GMC tractor-trailer, driven by Erskine Scott, 33, Munford, Tenn.

The stalled truck had flares and signal lights flashing according to the state highway patrol. John Scott, a brother of Erskine Scott, 49, Brighton, Tenn., a truck passenger, was slightly injured.

Lambert's body was taken to the Smith Funeral Home in Sikeston.

Lambert was born June 21, 1938, son of Mr. and Mrs. McKinley Lambert.

He graduated from Sikeston high school in 1958, where he starred in basketball in his junior and senior years. He played forward and was the team's top scorer in his senior year.

He was a member of a team that went to the state tournament in 1958 and received a basketball scholarship to Jarvis Christian College in Hawkins, Texas, where he graduated.

He taught and coached in O'Bannon high school at New Madrid five years.

He was a member of the West End Baptist church. In 1962 he married Lora Jackson, who survived.

Other survivors are two children, Debra and Vernon; his mother, Mrs. Sadie Lambert, Sikeston; six brothers, Charles Lambert in Army, Walter Lambert with the Navy in Guam, McKinley, Charles Howard, Bobby Joe and Linzie Lambert, all of Sikeston; five sisters, Mrs. Juanita Collins,

Hanoi Repeats Terms

TOKYO (AP) — Communist North Vietnam's radio broadcast today an "authorized" statement repeating Premier Pham Van Dong's description of Hanoi's four-point stand on the Vietnam war as a "basis" for settlement.

The terse announcement left in doubt whether it was meant to encourage or to dampen hopes for negotiations aroused by the North Vietnamese premier's interview with Harrison E. Salisbury of the New York Times, printed Wednesday.

The statement was preceded by complaints that some newspapers and broadcasts in "capitalist nations" had distorted the premier's statements, but no specific instance of distortion was given.

The broadcast said: "On this matter the Vietnam news agency has been authorized to make the following statement: The original text of what Premier Pham Van Dong told Mr. Harrison Salisbury was: 'The position of the four points of the Democratic Republic of Vietnam is a basis of ways to settle Vietnam problems."

Premier Dong's original statement was interpreted by some sources to mean a measure of retreat from the hard line, all-or-nothing stand of the four points which have been the main obstacles to negotiations. He was quoted as saying the four points were not necessarily preconditions to talks.

The four points include demands that the United States withdraw all its troops and installations from South Vietnam, recognize the sovereignty and territorial integrity of Vietnam, end all acts of war against the north, and permit settlement by the Vietnamese themselves, without foreign interference, "in accordance with the program" of the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Communist Viet Cong in the south.

In Washington, Secretary of State Dean Rusk, in a letter to a North Carolina student leader, said the United States is ready now to meet with Hanoi representatives either publicly or secretly to work out "arrangements for a just solution." He said there would be no difficulty having the Viet Cong's views presented, but rejected the demand that the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front be the only spokesman for the South Vietnamese people.

The Hanoi premier's interview touched off a flurry of speculation about North Viet Nam's interest in some sort of negotiations, and the speculation was intensified Thursday by remarks of the head of Hanoi's mission in Paris.

Mai Van Bo, head of that mission, asked about his government's attitude should Washington order an end to the bombing of the north, replied that he believed "such a proposal would be examined and studied by the Hanoi authorities, too."

He accused the United States of repeatedly violating the 1954 Geneva agreements which divided Vietnam, and insisted that the four-point demands remained the basis of Hanoi's approach to the problem. He demanded a prompt and unconditional halt to U.S. bombing of the north, but added that the United States had no right to ask for any reciprocal action from North Vietnam.

The U.S. State Department said Thursday the United States was prepared to order a halt to all bombing of the north as soon as Hanoi gave assurance, privately or otherwise, that the move would result in scaling down of hostilities by the Communist side.

Artist Reviews Portrait Hassle

WASHINGTON (AP) — The artist whose commissioned portrait of President Johnson was rejected by the First Family says he had to work with a sleeping subject and turn aside Mrs. Johnson's suggestions on how to paint the work.

And now, says artist Peter Hurd, he's lost interest in a second and smaller portrait he was doing of the President.

But even if the Johnsons don't like the first effort, there apparently is a demand for it from a museum and private collectors.

News of the turndown became public Thursday and was confirmed by Mrs. Johnson's press secretary Elizabeth Carpenter, who said the President "didn't like it and neither did she (Mrs. Johnson."

The portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring. The Washington Post said Mrs. Johnson told Hurd that a stormy scene which ensued was so unforgettable she didn't expect ever to endure anything so grim again.

Hurd said that when the portrait was unveiled for the Johnsons last spring the President "didn't like it a darn bit" and described it as "the ugliest thing I ever saw."

"The President was terribly tired," said the artist, who quoted Mrs. Johnson as saying the chief executive had been under tremendous pressure during the weekend. But Hurd said he and his wife spent the night at the Johnson ranch in Texas and otherwise were treated cordially.

Hurd, known for his southwestern landscapes and portraits, said from his New Mexico ranch the fact that he turned down changes suggested by the Johnsons could have been responsible for their rejecting the portrait.

"I just couldn't follow their suggestions and at the same time not lose quality in the painting," Hurd said.

He said Mrs. Johnson wanted it reduced in size from 40 inches by 48 inches to 30 inches by 36 inches.

"She was most kind, most cordial," Hurd said. "But some of her ideas I just couldn't carry out, like making the Capitol Dome misty and hazy."

The sharply-defined Capitol is midway down the left side of the painting, in a scale putting it far behind Johnson. The President is standing with a book in his hand and is depicted from about the waist up. He wears a serious expression on the three-quarter view of his face.

Hurd said he was forced to work mostly from photographs because he was permitted only one 30-minute sitting with Johnson — and that when the President "was terribly fatigued from a very busy week in Washington" and fell asleep, said the artist. "He was terribly sleepy, dead beat, bushed.

"I knew the President couldn't possibly give me much time," said Hurd, "but I hoped for a little more than I got from him. You don't begin to get into it in a half hour."

Hurd, who two months ago was working on a second Johnson portrait said Thursday he "just plain lost interest" in it because all he had to work from was a widely distributed photograph of the President.

"The only one I'd look at was in every darn bureaucrat's office in America," Hurd said. The unfinished painting showed Johnson at his desk, hands in front of him.

The larger portrait is reportedly to go in display in Columbus, Ohio, Thursday at the Gallery of Fine Arts and is also sought by the National Portrait Gallery of the Smithsonian Institution.

Legislators Take Break

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - Members of the 1967 Missouri Legislature have gone home for the weekend and many of then, presumably, will spend at least part of the time studying Gov. Warren E. Hearnes' billion dollar budget.

When House members return Monday they may get the report of the Rules Committee. And if they adopt the new rules, Speaker James E. Godfrey, D-St. Louis, said he would name the chairmen and members of the 37 standing committees.

One of the big questions is whom he will name for the all-important appropriations committee. It works harder and longer than any other.

The Legislative Fiscal Affairs Committee, meanwhile, is busy checking and rechecking the budget figures in order to be as much help as possible to the appropriations committee.

Dexter Hospital Dedication To Be Sunday

DEXTER -- The Dexter Memorial hospital building fund program will hold a dedication and ground breaking ceremony for the new hospital Sunday at 2 p.m. on the site on One Mile Road off of highway 60.

What the hospital will mean to families, to a patient from a physician's point of view, and what it means from the ministry of healing will be discussed.

Four Accident Victims Treated

Four accident victims were treated in the emergency room of the Missouri Delta Community hospital, Wednesday.

Sandburg Avoids Ado On 89th Birthday

FLAT ROCK, N.C. (AP) - There was no cake, no interview and no to-do for Carl Sandburg today on the poet-biographer's 89th birthday.

A few friends were expected to drop by Connemara, Sandburg's goat farm in this plateau country of the Blue Ridge Mountains, but nothing formal was planned.

"He won't eat cake so there's no sense in baking a birthday cake," said Paula, his wife, whom he married 58 years ago. "He never has liked cake or fancy things."

Sandburg, born in Galesburg, Ill., has done little writing since he was hospitalized in September 1965 with an intestinal disorder.

He spends most of the morning hours in bed. But in the afternoons, wearing baggy trousers, loose sweater and soft shoes, he putters about the big white frame building.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

BAKER'S DAY IN COURT

Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, the celebrated former Senate page, is scheduled to stand trial Monday Jan. 9 in Washington on nine charges of conspiracy, fraud, larceny, and tax evasion. His arraignment on the same charges occurred almost one year ago. The nine counts carry a maximum penalty of 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines.

The federal government contends that Baker used his position as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority to obtain around $100,000 from various individuals and corporations. In 1961 and 1962, the government alleges, Baker filed fraudulent income tax returns. Baker himself estimated his net worth in 1963 as more than $2.5 million.

During six days of pretrial hearings in November, Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's attorney, sought dismissal on grounds that the grand jury had been influenced by "venomous" articles in Washington newspapers and that some prosecution evidence had been obtained illegally through electronic eavesdropping. Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch declined to suppress all of the government's evidence, but he did rule inadmissible the conversations recorded by bugging devices.

The Baker case owes much of its prominence to the accused's close association with Lyndon B. Johnson when the latter was Senate majority leader and later Vice President. Whatever the verdict, the Baker trial and its attendant publicity are bound to embarrass the President politically and personally. But in view of Johnson's manifold other problems at home and abroad, the trial may not have quite the sensational impact that originally was expected of it.

President Lyndon B. Johnson hates to be reminded about the credibility gap for which administration is solely responsible.

He cannot shift the blame for this lapse to the press or to others.

The sign on the desk of Missouri's Harry Truman when he was President told the story in the observation that the "buck passing stops here."

In the Johnson administration the buck passing is more likely to start with the chief executive. It's one reason why Americans have lowered steadily their estimate of him.

This month veteran Congressman Paul Jones of Kennett told an audience in Sikeston that he didn't know what the war in Vietnam is costing the American people, who after all are footing the bill and have the right to have the information.

If President Johnson had been present he probably would have asked Jones to stand in the corner and wear a dunce cap.

During a press conference Sept. 21 he responded to a question about the war's costs by asking the reporter "do his homework", which really wasn't an answer but a flimsy, cheap, unwarranted excuse, beneath the dignity of the nation's chief executive.

"Q: Mr. President, sir, we really have not been told how much the war in Vietnam is costing and how much it is costing from day to day. This question has been put to Mr. McNamara early in the year and he said it is almost impossible to tell, and lately U.S. officials said they couldn't quite tell us. Don't you think the American people ought to be told? And I'm sure you know.

"A: I think that the Congress, through the Appropriations Committee and Authorizations Committee, have had very full details on our expenditures, men, money, and material in Vietnam. I would commend to you some home work. Read the hearings."

How can a reporter be expected to know the answer to a question denied to congressmen and other high government officials and which the President himself does not in fact answer?

What the nation and the reporter are getting is Great Society flippancy and it is wearing a little thin.

McNamara, the secretary of defense, and other officials have refused consistently to give clear statements about the cost of the war not only to reporters but to congressmen at official hearings, including those to which the President referred so acidly.

This is extremely puzzling since McNamara periodically talks about the money he has saved the nation down to such explicit details as the saving on bolts to hold armor on a helicopter.

If congressional hearings contain "full details on our expenditures" in Vietnam why do so many administration spokesmen still say publicly that they cannot supply this information?

If the President knows that the hearings provide this information he could answer a reporter's question candidly and with dignity.

In May of 1965 McNamara said the war would cost $700 million a year.

The senate military preparedness subcommittee now estimates that an additional $12 to $15 billion (that's right, billion, not million) will be needed for this fiscal year.

What the reporter really asked was whether the American people should be told the war's cost.

They should be.

OUR OWN PREDICTIONS

The recent Christmas holidays seemed devoted, in no small part, to speculation of the political future of Missouri's chief executive, Southeast Missourian Warren E. Hearnes. Just why the Santa Claus season and the political guessing season should coincide is anyone's guess, but the past several days have produced scores of predictions about the future of Governor Hearnes.

One normally rational political writer produced a holiday story that had Governor Hearnes seeking the vice-presidential nomination, if not in 1968 then in 1972. Still another produced a prediction that the chief executive would not seek re-election to his present job, something he worked hard to bring about through a change in the state's Constitution, and would become a candidate for the Tenth District U.S. Representative's post that will be vacated in 1968 by Congressman Paul Jones.

Without knowing any more than the other speculators we would guess that Governor Hearnes hopes to become the first Missourian to serve two consecutive terms in the chief executive's office. We are predicting, even before the political season gets underway, that the Southeast Missourian will file for re-election for his present job.

During his nearly two years in office, Governor Hearnes has compiled an outstanding record, achieving progress in all kinds of state programs ranging from higher education to mental health. He has avoided a tax increase, something he pledged to avoid during the 1964 campaign, and has been the beneficiary of an ever-expanding state tax revenue that has permitted broader financing of essential state programs. His administration has been free of scandal and he has continued to solidify his leadership within his own party.

At the moment there appears no serious candidate on the horizon who could, in our opinion, run him any kind of a race.

With such advantages it is hard to see why the Governor should be interested in any other job. We predict he will seek another four-year term when the time comes, particularly if his public record continues to shine as brightly as it does after two years in the Governor's office. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

RIGHT-TO-VOTE AND WORK?

Some of the most important and far-reaching legislation the current Congress is still considering has to do with labor.

At the top of the list is the drive to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartly Act which permits states, if they so choose, to enact Right-To-Work laws. This has passed the House and is now in the Senate. If the Senate succumbs to the powerful, even ruthless, political pressures which demand repeal, rank-and-file working people will be deprived of an absolutely essential right and protection. No matter what their beliefs and wants, they will be forced to join and pay dues to a private organization, a union, or lose their jobs. This is as unthinkable as if Congress passed a law denying a man the right to join a union.

Along with this, another vital issue is at stake. It is the Right-to-vote. This simply means that no union should be certified as bargaining agent for employees without a secret ballot election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. As of now, certification can be gained on the basis of a card count. The weaknesses in this are glaring. As the Cincinnati Enquirer has said, "Certification of a union as the bargaining agent for a group of employees should not be made on the basis of signatures to cards, as pressures conceivably could be used to obtain these that would not be operative in a secret election.. Nor should there be a recognition simply on the basis of a contract between employer and union leader because there have been cases where so-called sweetheart contracts scratched the back of the employer and the union boss but sold out the working man."

The weary charge that Right-to-Work and Right-to-Vote laws are "antiunion" is as phony as a three dollar bill. They are, instead, protections against exploitation and misrepresentation of the desires and beliefs of the working man who should have freedom of choice.

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

"I beg your pardon?"

"Be glad to buy you a drink," I said.

"Not drink. Duck!" he said. "That was Joe Penner's line. Ya wanna buy a duck."

I ordered anyway — for both of us.

"You're like the rest of them," the man said, ungratefully. "You don't know who Joe Penner was. You probably don't remember Mary Noble, Backstage Wife, who was on right after Young Widder Brown and right ahead of Stella Dallas."

"Two years," he said. "Two years ago everybody was talking about them. Couldn't go to a party without someone looking off into space and sighing 'I used to crawl under the covers at night — so my mother wouldn't know I was still awake — to listen to Inner Sanctum which was on at 11 o'clock'."

I nodded.

"Me, I wasn't that kind of kid," he went on. "I never played sick and stayed home to bone up on Portia Faces Life whose husband Walter was no good and who'd have all those mysterious illness that laid him up in the hospital for months while everybody sat at his bedside and talked about him."

"Listen to this," he said: " 'Can this little girl from a mining town in Colorado win happiness as the wife of England's richest and most handsome lord — Lord Henry Brinthrope'?"

"And that was — "I said, a la Fred Allen.

"That was the opening of Our Gal Sunday whose family home was called Black Swan Hall and who had a no-good brother coming in and lousing things up."

There was no stopping him.

"Francis X. Bushman in Drums on Sunday Afternoon, took place in India and the natives always were restless. Harry Horlick and the A&P gypsies. Phil Spitalny and his all-girl orchestra with Evelyn and her magic violin. Eddie Cantor singing I Love To Spend Each Sunday With You. The Fitch Bandwagon, use your head, save your hair. Hans Conried, Jim Backus and Ray Collins in soap operas. Mary Marlin who came on to the strains of Clair de Lune and was a lady congressman."

He went on in a bitter blur.

"You must be the hit of every party," I said, "with a memory like that."

"Not so," he said. "Two years ago when everybody was talking nostalgic trivia I was out of the swim. So I boned up. Read books, bought records, listened to rebroadcasts at 3 in the morning. Went to the library and ruined my eyes on microfilms of old newspapers."

"So?"

"So, now that I'm up on these things nobody talks about them any more. Now they're talking about Uncle Miltie, your Show of Shows and Matinee Theater."

"I know those," I said. "Ah, the good old days of television!"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- While the world press has sounded the alarm over the rise of Neo-Nazism in Germany, the extremist Liberty Lobby is holding a convention this weekend right in the capital of the United States.

The featured speaker will be Rep. Albert Watson, R.-S.C., who previously had let the organization use his name to promote its propaganda. Also listed on the program is congressman - elect John Rarick, D.-La.

The concern over the resurgence of Neo-Nazism in Germany is such that 29 distinguished Americans, including former undersecretaries of state Robert Murphy and Charles Saltzman, have conducted an investigation of the German situation.

But little public concern has been expressed over the way the same philosophy is gaining converts in the ruling circles of America. No one is investigating the Liberty Lobby whose founder and leader, Willis Carto, is an outspoken admirer of Adolf Hitler.

Carto not only has called Hitler's defeat a historical tragedy, but has inspired propaganda in this country against both Jews and Negroes. He has gone so far as to start a campaign to exile to Africa all American citizens whose skin happens to be black. In his letters to fellow extremists, at least those seen by this column, he hasn't said how he would solve the "Jewish problem."

ROLL CALL OF LOBBYISTS

Carto has surrounded himself on Liberty Lobby's policy board with such extremists as the following:

TYLER KENT -- He was convicted by a British court in 1940 for delivering secret information to the axis. The Liberty Lobby describes Kent as "an authentic American hero who was illegally sent to a British Jail for trying to expose Roosevelt's criminal war plans."

ED DELANEY -- As a broadcaster on Berlin radio, he worked for the Nazi foreign office during the early period of World War II. He quit, however, after the U. S. entered the war, and an indictment for treason was dismissed.

KENNETH GOFF -- A repentant Communist, he subsequently joined forces with rabid, anti-Jewish Gerald L. K. Smith.

REV. JAMES P. DEES -- He is another supporter of Gerald L. K. Smith, whom he was called "the greatest patriot in this country today."

W. Henry MacFarland -- He has headed several right-wing groups labeled by the attorney general and House Un-American Activities Committee as "Fascist." He also has been an associate and admirer of Gerald L. K. Smith.

ROBERT KUTTNER -- A contributor to several extremist publications, he is now a contributing editor of the Anti-Semitic, Anti-Negro Magazine, Western Destiny, which refers to World War II as a "fratricidal" war. Kuttner has written in the magazine that "evolutionary ethics defends the duty of the state to control the biological composition of its future populations."

There are others on the Liberty Lobby's board who are equally radical. Yet they are the kind of company with whom the right-lane fellow travelers on Capital Hill find themselves.

Note -- The Liberty Lobby sued this column for branding the testimony of its Chairman, Curtis Dall, as anti-semitic. We won the suit, including all appeals up to and including the U. S. Supreme Court.

COMMUNISM vs. FASCISM

If a dozen congressmen were found to be fronting for the Communists it would cause a scandal that would shake the republic to its foundations. Yet there are a dozen congressmen who openly front for these subversives of the ultra-right.

Most Americans are so obsessed with the menace of Communism, which seeks to turn a free society into a closed tyranny, that they have become oblivious to the attack on our freedoms by the radicals of the right who, in the name of liberty, wish to take away the liberty of the majority.

These fanatics pose as patriots, disguise themselves behind "fronts" with star-spangled names, preach the slogans of democracy, and proclaim their hatred of Communism with a great gnashing of teeth. They hurl the word "subversive" at others, though it more appropriately fits them.

Congressman Watson, who will deliver the keynote address at the Liberty Lobby convention this weekend, previously signed his name to a letter mailed out to 100,000 prospective customers, urging them to subscribe to the group's propaganda as "a good way to keep abreast of these perilous times on Capitol Hill."

Congressman Utt, whose administrative assistant has been on the Liberty Lobby's payroll at the same time he was collecting a salary from Uncle Sam, has also signed his name to a Liberty Lobby sales pitch.

"Liberty Lobby consistently works in the halls of congress," wrote Utt, "to oppose the international socialist takeover. Its 50,000 conservative activists from a letter- writing brigade which has already made its influence felt in several crucial votes."

Liberty Lobby has also awarded citations to congressmen Berry, Dorn, Dowdy, Utt, Waggonner and Williams, proclaiming them "statesmen of the republic." Most of them have participated in the organization's "patriotic" rallies.

Like the ultra-liberals of the 1930's who allowed their names to be used by Communist front groups, these right - lane fellow travelers are now allowing their names to be used to give respectability to the right - wing extremists.

BOY SCOUTS AND FREEDOM

Recently I read of a movement underway to drop the "boy" from Boy Scouts. We are being told that the present name sounds too young; that it just doesn't convey the right "image." Now I don't know what "image" the people planners have in mind for this outstanding youth group. In fact, I'm not sure that most people understand the planners' definition of the word "image."

But I do know that I also recently read where three men were sentenced to two years in prison for distributing Boy Scout literature in communist Hungary. In that country the Boy Scout movement is banned.

Just what is it about Boy Scouts that bothers the Reds so much? Could it be that they see a threat to Communism when young people take oaths to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent? Could be!

Come to think about it, they apparently see a threat in young people behaving in any manner except as militant, anti-God collectivists.

But if Boy Scouts have earned the distinction of being hated and feared by communists, they are of age. And they are worthy of our respect and support, regardless of why they may be called.

The example which the Scouts have set over the years is clear-cut and worthy of emulation by all freedom-loving people.

Communism--Socialism exploits youth. Freedom offers it a challenge, a purpose. Communism-Socialism stifles youth and destroys the spirit which is always young. Let's join the Boy Scouts in preserving freedom! HLH.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Labor's Man of the Year: The Seafarers' Militant: Paul Hall

New York: -- In days of yore and gore, before the waterfront became a movie and moved into gentility, some fifty muscled New Jersey dock-wallopers crossed the Hudson and went in search of an elusive newspaperman. The reporter, I can tell you personally, learned of the posse and called his good friend, the Seafarers' president Paul Hall.

A few hours later the columnist, in "high noon' style, walked slowly into the center of a street towards the 50 goons. They made for him.

But looking past the lone chap they noticed several hundred white-capped huskies blocking one end of the street. They turned quickly. They had been trapped.

The other end was closed off by another battalion of white caps -- and the Jersey thugs knew that these white caps meant a storm. The caps were worn by Hall's lads. They had executed a perfect maneuver, located the invading mob, bottled them up and discouraged them -- and all the time these seafarers were in walkie talkie touch with Hall and headquarters over in Brooklyn.

Hall had moved rapidly because a friend had asked for help. He acted and then asked. He could not -- and can not -- conceive that a loyal friend would deceive or "position" him, because he himself would not do that to a friend.

He places a premium on loyalty. He has shown that loyalty to most of the labor movement. It is believed that the labor movement will reciprocate when the time comes.

To those on the inside, this means that few men have the strength, the support, the votes, the fraternity that the 52-year-old, 230-pound, ex-prizefighter (75 bouts), ex-seagoing oiler will have in the final count when it is tallied for a successor to AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Therefore, as the man who most likely will be the Mr. Labor of the 1970s -- Paul Hall, in this corner, is The Labor Man Of The Year.

Lest this vignette of mr. Hall be misinterpreted, it must be reiterated immediately that "Paul" cannot be measured only in "physical" terms. Though, in a land where the public thinks of labor solely in the image of Jimmy Hoffa or Walter Reuther, Hall is not widely known. Yet he has taken on the biggest ones -- intellectually, organizationally, politically, philosophically and oratorically.

He can, because he does his homework. And he has won. He has beaten in a series of contests men such as Lyndon Johnson, Bob Kennedy, Walter Reuther, Jim Hoffa and 1,000 British Labor Congress delegates.

And now he has decided to challenge the entire maritime fleet of the Soviet Union. For he not only is president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, and vice-president of the AFL-CIO itself, but is head of the 30-union Maritime Trades Dept., AFL-CIO.

He can battle because he has put his house in order. And it is a big house indeed.

He has a stage-set type of headquarters - over in Brooklyn's waterfront area. There are schools for young men who want to go to sea. He has built a magnificent marina out in the bay -- replete with ships, galleys and a fantastic mess hall.

In Washington, he has moved the proletariat into Embassy Row at 2929 Massachusetts Ave. N.W. There in a vine-covered 29-room (expanding) neo-Georgian mansion with lush gardens in which once trod Vanderbilts and royalty, the Seafarers will run their new capital headquarters.

No embassy will be run any more efficiently. It will hum like Hall's computerized Brooklyn home office.

But Paul Hall's strength is not in his showpieces. It is in his loyalty, energy and bluntness.

He has beaten Jim Hoffa in a dozen cities. He loathes him and thinks him a fink. Yet recently Hall sharply criticized "the methods" used by Bob Kennedy to "get" Jimmy Hoffa.

Hall, one of Mr. Meany's staunchest stalwarts, believes that Hoffa is a labor matter and it could have been settled on the home front.

Hall thinks little of Walter Reuther. More than once he has broiled the articulate Detroiter with smothering oratory behind the locked doors of the AFL-CIO executive council.

As for President Johnson, the Seafarer respects him, but stands up to the man and even the office of the chief executive.

Last summer at a White House dinner for some 70 labor leaders, Mr. Johnson ruefully looked across the room at Paul Hall, who was sitting with Dean Rusk, and remarked loudly, "It is said I am the most powerful man in the world. It is not true that the President can do what he wishes -- or deliver as he wishes. Just ask Paul Hall if you think the President really is powerful."

Then the President of the U.S. said, "The other day we wanted a bill passed" over Mr. Hall's oppostion, "and all we got were 63 votes." Later Mr. Johnson asked Mr. Meany to slip over to Mr. Hall and urge him to confer with three of the President's advisers.

But all this courage, dynamism, preparation, are not what may well make Hall president of the AFL-CIO's 13.5 million followers. Some say that Paul Hall is pulling a Barry Goldwater -- organizationally speaking.

Hall goes everywhere -- the laborers' convention, the labor press luncheons, banquets, strike meetings, conferences -- everywhere he is asked for a speech or political, financial and organizational assistance.

And he never goes unprepared. His advance men go in first to discover the issue, the need, the conversation pieces. Then he speaks. But rarely compromises.

When the AFL-CIO sent him to the British Trade Union Congress in Blackpool Eng., last summer, he went, defended the American position in Vietnam and stuck to his premise though the British howled.

When he returned, there was a note on his desk from Lyndon Johnson.

Paul Hall is labor's prototype of the organization man. It is said that he has many IOUs standing -- from social service workers, teamsters, bricklayers, schoolteachers and public employes.

Those are not IOUs. They are notes of friendship.

And they will turn into votes for the tough, militant, but economically sophisticated Seafarers when the time comes to choose a successor to Mr. Meany -- whenever that may be.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

BAKER'S DAY IN COURT

Robert G. (Bobby) Baker, the celebrated former Senate page, is scheduled to stand trial Monday Jan. 9 in Washington on nine charges of conspiracy, fraud, larceny, and tax evasion. His arraignment on the same charges occurred almost one year ago. The nine counts carry a maximum penalty of 48 years in jail and $47,000 in fines.

The federal government contends that Baker used his position as secretary to the Senate Democratic majority to obtain around $100,000 from various individuals and corporations. In 1961 and 1962, the government alleges, Baker filed fraudulent income tax returns. Baker himself estimated his net worth in 1963 as more than $2.5 million.

During six days of pretrial hearings in November, Edward Bennett Williams, Baker's attorney, sought dismissal on grounds that the grand jury had been influenced by "venomous" articles in Washington newspapers and that some prosecution evidence had been obtained illegally through electronic eavesdropping. Federal District Judge Oliver Gasch declined to suppress all of the government's evidence, but he did rule inadmissible the conversations recorded by bugging devices.

The Baker case owes much of its prominence to the accused's close association with Lyndon B. Johnson when the latter was Senate majority leader and later Vice President. Whatever the verdict, the Baker trial and its attendant publicity are bound to embarrass the President politically and personally. But in view of Johnson's manifold other problems at home and abroad, the trial may not have quite the sensational impact that originally was expected of it.

President Lyndon B. Johnson hates to be reminded about the credibility gap for which administration is solely responsible.

He cannot shift the blame for this lapse to the press or to others.

The sign on the desk of Missouri's Harry Truman when he was President told the story in the observation that the "buck passing stops here."

In the Johnson administration the buck passing is more likely to start with the chief executive. It's one reason why Americans have lowered steadily their estimate of him.

This month veteran Congressman Paul Jones of Kennett told an audience in Sikeston that he didn't know what the war in Vietnam is costing the American people, who after all are footing the bill and have the right to have the information.

If President Johnson had been present he probably would have asked Jones to stand in the corner and wear a dunce cap.

During a press conference Sept. 21 he responded to a question about the war's costs by asking the reporter "do his homework", which really wasn't an answer but a flimsy, cheap, unwarranted excuse, beneath the dignity of the nation's chief executive.

"Q: Mr. President, sir, we really have not been told how much the war in Vietnam is costing and how much it is costing from day to day. This question has been put to Mr. McNamara early in the year and he said it is almost impossible to tell, and lately U.S. officials said they couldn't quite tell us. Don't you think the American people ought to be told? And I'm sure you know.

"A: I think that the Congress, through the Appropriations Committee and Authorizations Committee, have had very full details on our expenditures, men, money, and material in Vietnam. I would commend to you some home work. Read the hearings."

How can a reporter be expected to know the answer to a question denied to congressmen and other high government officials and which the President himself does not in fact answer?

What the nation and the reporter are getting is Great Society flippancy and it is wearing a little thin.

McNamara, the secretary of defense, and other officials have refused consistently to give clear statements about the cost of the war not only to reporters but to congressmen at official hearings, including those to which the President referred so acidly.

This is extremely puzzling since McNamara periodically talks about the money he has saved the nation down to such explicit details as the saving on bolts to hold armor on a helicopter.

If congressional hearings contain "full details on our expenditures" in Vietnam why do so many administration spokesmen still say publicly that they cannot supply this information?

If the President knows that the hearings provide this information he could answer a reporter's question candidly and with dignity.

In May of 1965 McNamara said the war would cost $700 million a year.

The senate military preparedness subcommittee now estimates that an additional $12 to $15 billion (that's right, billion, not million) will be needed for this fiscal year.

What the reporter really asked was whether the American people should be told the war's cost.

They should be.

OUR OWN PREDICTIONS

The recent Christmas holidays seemed devoted, in no small part, to speculation of the political future of Missouri's chief executive, Southeast Missourian Warren E. Hearnes. Just why the Santa Claus season and the political guessing season should coincide is anyone's guess, but the past several days have produced scores of predictions about the future of Governor Hearnes.

One normally rational political writer produced a holiday story that had Governor Hearnes seeking the vice-presidential nomination, if not in 1968 then in 1972. Still another produced a prediction that the chief executive would not seek re-election to his present job, something he worked hard to bring about through a change in the state's Constitution, and would become a candidate for the Tenth District U.S. Representative's post that will be vacated in 1968 by Congressman Paul Jones.

Without knowing any more than the other speculators we would guess that Governor Hearnes hopes to become the first Missourian to serve two consecutive terms in the chief executive's office. We are predicting, even before the political season gets underway, that the Southeast Missourian will file for re-election for his present job.

During his nearly two years in office, Governor Hearnes has compiled an outstanding record, achieving progress in all kinds of state programs ranging from higher education to mental health. He has avoided a tax increase, something he pledged to avoid during the 1964 campaign, and has been the beneficiary of an ever-expanding state tax revenue that has permitted broader financing of essential state programs. His administration has been free of scandal and he has continued to solidify his leadership within his own party.

At the moment there appears no serious candidate on the horizon who could, in our opinion, run him any kind of a race.

With such advantages it is hard to see why the Governor should be interested in any other job. We predict he will seek another four-year term when the time comes, particularly if his public record continues to shine as brightly as it does after two years in the Governor's office. - Daily Dunklin Democrat

RIGHT-TO-VOTE AND WORK?

Some of the most important and far-reaching legislation the current Congress is still considering has to do with labor.

At the top of the list is the drive to repeal Section 14(b) of the Taft-Hartly Act which permits states, if they so choose, to enact Right-To-Work laws. This has passed the House and is now in the Senate. If the Senate succumbs to the powerful, even ruthless, political pressures which demand repeal, rank-and-file working people will be deprived of an absolutely essential right and protection. No matter what their beliefs and wants, they will be forced to join and pay dues to a private organization, a union, or lose their jobs. This is as unthinkable as if Congress passed a law denying a man the right to join a union.

Along with this, another vital issue is at stake. It is the Right-to-vote. This simply means that no union should be certified as bargaining agent for employees without a secret ballot election supervised by the National Labor Relations Board. As of now, certification can be gained on the basis of a card count. The weaknesses in this are glaring. As the Cincinnati Enquirer has said, "Certification of a union as the bargaining agent for a group of employees should not be made on the basis of signatures to cards, as pressures conceivably could be used to obtain these that would not be operative in a secret election.. Nor should there be a recognition simply on the basis of a contract between employer and union leader because there have been cases where so-called sweetheart contracts scratched the back of the employer and the union boss but sold out the working man."

The weary charge that Right-to-Work and Right-to-Vote laws are "antiunion" is as phony as a three dollar bill. They are, instead, protections against exploitation and misrepresentation of the desires and beliefs of the working man who should have freedom of choice.

"Not drink. Duck!" he said. "That was Joe Penner's line. Ya wanna buy a duck."

I ordered anyway — for both of us.

"You're like the rest of them," the man said, ungratefully. "You don't know who Joe Penner was. You probably don't remember Mary Noble, Backstage Wife, who was on right after Young Widder Brown and right ahead of Stella Dallas."

"Two years," he said. "Two years ago everybody was talking about them. Couldn't go to a party without someone looking off into space and sighing 'I used to crawl under the covers at night — so my mother wouldn't know I was still awake — to listen to Inner Sanctum which was on at 11 o'clock'."

I nodded.

"Me, I wasn't that kind of kid," he went on. "I never played sick and stayed home to bone up on Portia Faces Life whose husband Walter was no good and who'd have all those mysterious illness that laid him up in the hospital for months while everybody sat at his bedside and talked about him."

"Listen to this," he said: " 'Can this little girl from a mining town in Colorado win happiness as the wife of England's richest and most handsome lord — Lord Henry Brinthrope'?"

"And that was — "I said, a la Fred Allen.

He went on in a bitter blur.

"You must be the hit of every party," I said, "with a memory like that."

"Not so," he said. "Two years ago when everybody was talking nostalgic trivia I was out of the swim. So I boned up. Read books, bought records, listened to rebroadcasts at 3 in the morning. Went to the library and ruined my eyes on microfilms of old newspapers."

"So?"

Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON -- While the world press has sounded the alarm over the rise of Neo-Nazism in Germany, the extremist Liberty Lobby is holding a convention this weekend right in the capital of the United States.

The featured speaker will be Rep. Albert Watson, R.-S.C., who previously had let the organization use his name to promote its propaganda. Also listed on the program is congressman - elect John Rarick, D.-La.

The concern over the resurgence of Neo-Nazism in Germany is such that 29 distinguished Americans, including former undersecretaries of state Robert Murphy and Charles Saltzman, have conducted an investigation of the German situation.

But little public concern has been expressed over the way the same philosophy is gaining converts in the ruling circles of America. No one is investigating the Liberty Lobby whose founder and leader, Willis Carto, is an outspoken admirer of Adolf Hitler.

Now I don't know what "image" the people planners have in mind for this outstanding youth group. In fact, I'm not sure that most people understand the planners' definition of the word "image."

But I do know that I also recently read where three men were sentenced to two years in prison for distributing Boy Scout literature in communist Hungary. In that country the Boy Scout movement is banned.

Just what is it about Boy Scouts that bothers the Reds so much? Could it be that they see a threat to Communism when young people take oaths to be trustworthy, loyal, helpful, friendly, courteous, kind, obedient, cheerful, thrifty, brave, clean and reverent? Could be!

Come to think about it, they apparently see a threat in young people behaving in any manner except as militant, anti-God collectivists.

But if Boy Scouts have earned the distinction of being hated and feared by communists, they are of age. And they are worthy of our respect and support, regardless of why they may be called.

The example which the Scouts have set over the years is clear-cut and worthy of emulation by all freedom-loving people.

Communism--Socialism exploits youth. Freedom offers it a challenge, a purpose. Communism-Socialism stifles youth and destroys the spirit which is always young. Let's join the Boy Scouts in preserving freedom! HLH.

Inside Labor

Labor's Man of the Year: The Seafarers' Militant: Paul Hall

New York: -- In days of yore and gore, before the waterfront became a movie and moved into gentility, some fifty muscled New Jersey dockwallopers crossed the Hudson and went in search of an elusive newspaperman. The reporter, I can tell you personally, learned of the posse and called his good friend, the Seafarers' president Paul Hall.

A few hours later the columnist, in "high noon' style, walked slowly into the center of a street towards the 50 goons. They made for him.

But looking past the lone chap they noticed several hundred white-capped huskies blocking one end of the street. They turned quickly. They had been trapped.

The other end was closed off by another battalion of white caps -- and the Jersey thugs knew that these white caps meant a storm. The caps were worn by Hall's lads. They had executed a perfect maneuver, located the invading mob, bottled them up and discouraged them -- and all the time these seafarers were in walkie talkie touch with Hall and headquarters over in Brooklyn.

Hall had moved rapidly because a friend had asked for help. He acted and then asked. He could not -- and can not -- conceive that a loyal friend would deceive or "position" him, because he himself would not do that to a friend.

He places a premium on loyalty. He has shown that loyalty to most of the labor movement. It is believed that the labor movement will reciprocate when the time comes.

To those on the inside, this means that few men have the strength, the support, the votes, the fraternity that the 52-year-old, 230-pound, ex-prizefighter (75 bouts), ex-seagoing oiler will have in the final count when it is tallied for a successor to AFL-CIO President George Meany.

Therefore, as the man who most likely will be the Mr. Labor of the 1970s -- Paul Hall, in this corner, is The Labor Man Of The Year.

Lest this vignette of mr. Hall be misinterpreted, it must be reiterated immediately that "Paul" cannot be measured only in "physical" terms. Though, in a land where the public thinks of labor solely in the image of Jimmy Hoffa or Walter Reuther, Hall is not widely known. Yet he has taken on the biggest ones -- intellectually, organizationally, politically, philosophically and oratorically.

He can, because he does his homework. And he has won. He has beaten in a series of contests men such as Lyndon Johnson, Bob Kennedy, Walter Reuther, Jim Hoffa and 1,000 British Labor Congress delegates.

And now he has decided to challenge the entire maritime fleet of the Soviet Union. For he not only is president of the Seafarers' International Union of North America, and vice-president of the AFL-CIO itself, but is head of the 30-union Maritime Trades Dept., AFL-CIO.

He can battle because he has put his house in order. And it is a big house indeed.

He has a stage-set type of headquarters - over in Brooklyn's waterfront area. There are schools for young men who want to go to sea. He has built a magnificent marina out in the bay -- replete with ships, galleys and a fantastic mess hall.

In Washington, he has moved the proletariat into Embassy Row at 2929 Massachusetts Ave. N.W. There in a vine-covered 29-room (expanding) neo-Georgian mansion with lush gardens in which once trod Vanderbilts and royalty, the Seafarers will run their new capital headquarters.

No embassy will be run any more efficiently. It will hum like Hall's computerized Brooklyn home office.

But Paul Hall's strength is not in his showpieces. It is in his loyalty, energy and bluntness.

He has beaten Jim Hoffa in a dozen cities. He loathes him and thinks him a fink. Yet recently Hall sharply criticized "the methods" used by Bob Kennedy to "get" Jimmy Hoffa.

Hall, one of Mr. Meany's staunchest stalwarts, believes that Hoffa is a labor matter and it could have been settled on the home front.

Hall thinks little of Walter Reuther. More than once he has broiled the articulate Detroiter with smothering oratory behind the locked doors of the AFL-CIO executive council.

As for President Johnson, the Seafarer respects him, but stands up to the man and even the office of the chief executive.

Last summer at a White House dinner for some 70 labor leaders, Mr. Johnson ruefully looked across the room at Paul Hall, who was sitting with Dean Rusk, and remarked loudly, "It is said I am the most powerful man in the world. It is not true that the President can do what he wishes -- or deliver as he wishes. Just ask Paul Hall if you think the President really is powerful."

Then the President of the U.S. said, "The other day we wanted a bill passed" over Mr. Hall's oppostion, "and all we got were 63 votes." Later Mr. Johnson asked Mr. Meany to slip over to Mr. Hall and urge him to confer with three of the President's advisers.

But all this courage, dynamism, preparation, are not what may well make Hall president of the AFL-CIO's 13.5 million followers. Some say that Paul Hall is pulling a Barry Goldwater -- organizationally speaking.

Hall goes everywhere -- the laborers' convention, the labor press luncheons, banquets, strike meetings, conferences -- everywhere he is asked for a speech or political, financial and organizational assistance.

And he never goes unprepared. His advance men go in first to discover the issue, the need, the conversation pieces. Then he speaks. But rarely compromises.

When the AFL-CIO sent him to the British Trade Union Congress in Blackpool Eng., last summer, he went, defended the American position in Vietnam and stuck to his premise though the British howled.

When he returned, there was a note on his desk from Lyndon Johnson.

Paul Hall is labor's prototype of the organization man. It is said that he has many IOUs standing -- from social service workers, teamsters, bricklayers, schoolteachers and public employes.

Those are not IOUs. They are notes of friendship.

And they will turn into votes for the tough, militant, but economically sophisticated Seafarers when the time comes to choose a successor to Mr. Meany -- whenever that may be.

New Math for Women's Fashions

NEW YORK (AP) - The new math for women's fashions goes like this: For daytime wear subtract as much as the law allows from the bottom. For evening subtract that much from the top.

There is also a lot of multiplication of pleats in the new suits and division - long and short - of skirts into party pajamas, culottes and even boxer shorts.

The style lesson began Wednesday for more than 230 newswomen here for the New York couture group's semiannual press week activities and will continue through Sunday.

Leggy lasses in the Monte-Sano and Pruzan collection wore good examples of the first axiom. Their skirts were short and spare, while jackets were wide at the shoulder, high necked, or built up even further with scarves.

The Junior Sophisticate house began a parade of cold shoulders, a trend continued later in the evening wear by Cameo and by Harvey Berin's designer Karen Stark. One-shoulder togas, string straps, deep dipping decolletege and no-shoulder wraparounds were among the regal gowns in slinky crepes or wispy chiffons that reached the ground.

Sharply sophisticated, were Cameo's black-and-white panel crepe dresses, some with sleeves, some without shoulder covers.

Chiffon multiplied by the yards formed floaty wings on the backs of angelic models in formal party dress. Generous was the material, and sparkling with gems or metallic threads were the party dresses created by Morty Sussman for Jobere.

And generous will be the husbands who pay for these extravagant creations this year.

TAKE AND GIVE

A family who had just moved into a new neighborhood was anxious to make a good impression. But the neighbors seemed cold, and made no overtures of welcome. The mother of the brood was overjoyed when finally her youngest son ran in and announced happily, "Mommy, the lady down the street asked my name today!"

"Oh, how nice!" exclaimed the mother enthusiastically. "And then what did she do?"

"Then she gave it to the policeman," the boy said.

Miss Margie Lorene Sutton

Miss Sutton Betrothed To Thomas H. Maddox

MATTHEWS - Mr. and Mrs. George M. Sutton announce the engagement of their daughter, Margie Lorene, to Thomas Harrison Maddox, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Maddox of New Madrid.

The bride-elect is a senior at Matthews high school. Maddox is a 1966 graduate of New Madrid high school and is employed at the REA Express Co. in St. Louis.

Miss Carolyn Williams Weds Richard Crow

CHARLESTON -- Miss Carolyn Williams of Cape Girardeau became the bride of Richard Crow at 10 a.m. Saturday, at the Southside Baptist church. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Fay Jeffries of Cape Girardeau and the late Charles Williams and granddaughter of Mrs. Zettie McCutchen.

Crow is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Crow of Columbia. The bride is a former resident of Charleston.

The Rev. Eugene Runnels, pastor of the church, officiated using the double ring ceremony in the presence of relatives and friends. A large arrangement of white gladioli, leaf fern and two seven-branched candelabra holding lighted tapers appointed the sanctuary. The traditional white bridal carpet covered the aisle and white bows marked the pews. Mrs. Cora Stallings, organist, played the wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. Bill Wills who sang "I'll Walk Beside You" and "I Love You Truly."

The bride, given in marriage by her uncle, Glenn McCutchen of St. Louis, wore a formal gown of angel mist taffeta and Chantilly lace. The lace bodice highlighted with sequins, long sleeves ending in calla lily points at the wrists. The floor-length skirt was accented by ripple of ruffles, beginning at the back of the waistline and ending in a chapel train. Her bouffant veil of illusion was shoulder length. She carried a white Bible topped with a white orchid.

Miss Sherry Williams of Cape Girardeau served as maid of honor. She wore a crepe dress, the bodice of which was fashioned of cranberry shade velvet and bateau neckline which dipped low in the back. Her skirt fell floor - length from an Empire waistline outlined with lace. Her short veil of illusion and her slippers matched the velvet bodice.

Miss Linda Francis and Miss Carolyn Crow of Columbia served as bridesmaids. They wore dresses identical except in color to that of the maid of honor. Miss Francis, wore Christmas green, with light green skirt and Miss Crow, royal blue with light blue skirt. The maid of honor and each bridesmaid carried a white fur muff.

John Wilson of Columbia served as best man and the groomsmen were William Henry and Mark Anderson, both of Columbia. Darrel Jeffries, was ring bearer. The men wore black tuxedos and white carnation boutonnieres.

Mrs. Jeffries, mother of the bride, wore a three-piece suit of rose pink with pink lace blouse and a fur hat and other accessories of brown. Mrs. Zettie McCutchen, the bride's grandmother, wore navy blue silk and black accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table, overlaid with white lace cloth, was centered with white candles in crystal and greenery.

A three - tier wedding cake was served with punch, mints and nuts by Misses Esther Taylor and Marilyn Crow. Mrs. Dewey Pry, and Mrs. Charles Adcock served as table hostesses. Miss Ilene Crow was in charge of the guest register.

Mr. Crow and his bride left the reception to go to their home in Columbia.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Michael Ward, Harold Dickmeyer III, Mrs. Virginia Dickmeyer and Mrs. Dona Smith of Granite City, Ill.; Mrs. James Turner and Mrs. Ether Taylor, both of Cape Girardeau; H. Keith Moberly and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCutchen of St. Louis.

Both bride and bridegroom are graduates of Hickman high school in Columbia. The bride attended Southeast Missouri State College at Cape Girardeau.

Mrs. Jeffries, mother of the bride, wore a three-piece suit of rose pink with pink lace blouse and a fur hat and other accessories of brown. Mrs. Zettie McCutchen, the bride's grandmother, wore navy blue silk and black accessories. Each wore an orchid corsage.

A reception was held in the fellowship hall. The bride's table, overlaid with white lace cloth, was centered with white candles in crystal and greenery.

A three - tier wedding cake was served with punch, mints and nuts by Misses Esther Taylor and Marilyn Crow. Mrs. Dewey Pry, and Mrs. Charles Adcock served as table hostesses. Miss Ilene Crow was in charge of the guest register.

Among the out-of-town guests attending were Mrs. Michael Ward, Harold Dickmeyer III, Mrs. Virginia Dickmeyer and Mrs. Dona Smith of Granite City, Ill.; Mrs. James Turner and Mrs. Ether Taylor, both of Cape Girardeau; H. Keith Moberly and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn McCutchen of St. Louis.

Another Prediction

Another night of basketball for Southeast Missouri has rolled around and our "Little Devil" will try his luck at predictions once again.

Since the start of the Christmas tournaments, we have had our difficulty in predicting the winner so we're going to take a long and hard look at tonight's action and tell you what we see.

Kennett at Jackson --- Well, all we see in this contest is another Indian victory for Coach Terry Turlington's squad. Jackson will suffer another defeat. . .Poor Leo . . . .Kennett 69, Jackson 56.

Holcomb at Southland --- This should prove to be some basketball contest . . . . We will have to go with the host Rebels, just because of their home court advantage. Southland 59, Holcomb 57.

Doniphan at Richland --- Those Dons fell early in the tournament at Bloomfield last week. . . .Richland posted an upset before bowing out. What we're trying to say is . . . .This should be some game. . . .and we just don't know who to pick. . . .We'll go with the Rebs. Richland 71, Doniphan 67.

Parma at Portageville --- Those Pirates fooled everyone in Southeast Missouri Tuesday. . . .Upsetting the Clarkton Reindeer. . . . We didn't think they had it in them. . . .but the performance of James Gibson and Henry Lutes provided the punch as well as the leadership of Ken Womack. We think the Pirates have jelled. . . .we hope so. . . . Parma 78, Portageville 58.

Bloomfield at Bernie ---If the Mules had any height to go along with Gary Craft. . . . They would be great. . . .but that's a big if. . . .Bloomfield can put a group of small one's on the floor that can run, shoot, and rebound. . . .They have a big boy too. We see the Wildcats escaping the Mules. Bloomfield 51, Bernie 45.

Patton at Oak Ridge --- We'll take the Patton Panthers in this contest. . . .They have a fine record. . . .Patton 72, Oak Ridge 58.

Morehouse at New Madrid ---Coach Carroll Compton's Indians have the Tigers on their home court. . . .so watch out Morehouse. . . .We see a close battle with the Indians showing rebound strength. New Madrid 67, Morehouse 63.

Illmo-Scott City at Puxico ---Another real good match . . . .We think coach Smith's Indians have learned they are unbeatable and will be out for the Rams tonight . . . .Puxico 68, Illmo-Scott City 62.

Greenway at South Pemiscot --- We just don't know how to turn in this contest . . . . we see the Pems at the helm. South Pemiscot 58, Greenway 50.

Lilbourn at Gideon --- This will be a battle of defense between offense. . . .We think the offense will win out in this contest. Gideon 46, Lilbourn 36.

Chaffee at East Prairie --- We will go with the home town squad. . . .The Red Devils have been improving and may score a victory. . . .but we think not. East Prairie 71, Chaffee 68.

Dexter at Poplar Bluff --- We see an upset in this contest. . . .The Mules will find the Guethle brothers took much to cope with. . . .Dexter 64, Poplar Bluff 63.

St. Henry at Oran --- If coach Bess has his other Johnson back in the lineup . . . .there is no telling how bad they'll beat the Trojans . . . .if he's out. . . .it could prove to be a good game. Oran 89, St. Henry 60.

That's about it for tonight. . . . We'll see you people at New Madrid tonight. . . .We want to see the Tigers play again.

DEERING - Hayti North high school raced to its 10th consecutive victory last night as they shot past Delta C-7's Chargers 70-56. The Indians have not lost a game this season and are currently ranked second in the Daily Standard basketball poll.

Hayti's sensationsl post man, Benny Johnson, hit over half of the Indian's points, as he poured in 43 points and pulled down 31 rebounds for his best performance of the season.

Johnson collected 28 points in the second half, scoring 14 points in each of the third and fourth quarters after collecting 10 in the first and five in the second.

Coach Norman Nelson's Indians returned all but two starters from last season's 15-7 team and have gone undefeated.

It was all Benny Johnson from the opening tip. He controlled the defensive rebounds and led his team into a 15-12 first quarter lead. He collected 10 of the Indian's points in the first quarter.

Deering used a full court zone press that fazed the Indians very little. Hayti's Benny Johnson, six foot four inch center, used his ball handling to penetrate the press for 43 points.

Deering posted a comeback surge at the start of the third period as it pulled to within one point of Coach Nelson's Indians but fell short as Johnson continued his fantastic scoring.

Burden sacked up 24 points to take high scoring honors for the Chargers. White hit 18 for Hayti North.

Kennett Cager Stars For MU Freshman Team

Coach Bob Price's young Missourians won a month ago, 92-82, on the excellent gunnery of guard Theo Franks (26) and forward Don Tomlinson (24). For the baby Bills, Joe Wiley collected 26.

Joining Franks (6-3) and Tomlinson (6-5) in the starting lineup will be Pete Helmbock (6-5), forward; Chuck Kundert (6-6), center; and Mike Seyfer (6-2), guard.

Gleaves Heads Dexter Clergy

Other officers named included Rev. Marshall Dark, pastor of the First Baptist Church, vice president; Ben Russell, First Presbyterian Church, secretary and Joe Tweddle, treasurer.

Roger Maris Expected To Report

ST. LOUIS AP -- Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals expect Roger Maris to report for spring training although some feel the former New York Yankee home run specialist may have considered retirement.

Cardinals' General Manager Bob Howsam said Thursday he visited with Maris in Kansas City last weekend and felt Maris had considered retirement, but has changed his mind.

Maris was traded to the Cardinals last month by New York with third baseman Charlie Smith going to the Yankees. In 1961, Maris hit a record 61 home runs for the Yankees.

Howsam also said eight members of Cardinals have been invited to report early for spring training in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Unemployment Pay in Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- The Missouri division of employment security during 1966 reported a total of 881,710 weeks of unemployment on which unemployment benefits to workers amounted to $28,695,491.20 from a total employer contribution of $45,418,917.66.

Scott 2,729 $82,753.98 and $227,094.59; Dunklin, 7,688, $230,306.43 and $172,591.89; Mississippi, 4,693 weeks, $134-278.86 and $59.044.59; New Madrid, 1,511 weeks, $49,671.70 and $63,586.48; Pemiscot, 5,692 weeks, $146,738.50 and $86,295.94; Stoddard, 7,117 weeks, $181,881.85 and $163,508.10.

COLUMBIA -- The best defense for Iowa State's awesome shooting here this Saturday afternoon might be for Mizzou's home management to criss-cross the top of the Cyclone hoop with several strands of heavy-test, nylon thread.

Three Cyclone starters will carry 50-plus shooting percentages into this 1:15 p.m. televised game. Coach Glen Anderson's finalists in the 1966 Big Eight tournament show a team accuracy mark of 49.1 from the field.

It's the first of ten televised Big Eight games -- with Monte Moore and Bob Zenner describing the action to a 25-station network in seven states.

Missouri (2-9) jumps back into conference play against Kansas State Tuesday night at Manhattan. So the Bengals will be taking on the Big Eight Tourney's No. 2 and No. 3 teams in their first league tests.

Iowa State (7-3) is led by the hot-shooting trio of Don Smith, an all-tournament choice, John McGonigle and Dave Fleming. Smith, a 6-ft. 8 junior center, is averaging 25.4 points with a 53.9 percentage from the field. McGonigle has a 17-point average, hitting 52.9 percent. Fleming is a 9.8 point shooter with a 52 percent efficiency mark.

Lanky Raul Duarte isn't far behind at 9.2 and 48.5 -- while fifth starter Dave Hartman falls off to a 2.7 average and 40 percent. By contrast, Ol' Mizzou's best marksman -- Gene Jones -- has connected on just 40 percent of his tries, the same as the Cyclones' No. 5 man in shooting proficiency.

Jones will be at center in Coach Bob Vanatta's newly-revised fivesome -- as the Tigers try to end a distressing string of seven losses, all on the road. The 6-ft. 7 junior from Brookport, Ill., replaced Booker Brown at the pivot against Oklahoma State and scored a seasonal high of 22 before fouling out.

He'll be joined in the front court with Jim Chapman (6-6) and Tom Johnson (6-4) -- while Ron Coleman (6-1) and Dave Bennett (6-2) are guard starters. Mizzou can count on more reserve strength now that guard Rob Vanatta and forward Tom Miltenberger are back in action.

Vanatta missed eight games with an ankle injury, while Miltenberger sat out last season with a fractured ankle.

Sophomore John Weston, ill all season with a virus, officially was removed from the roster this week, after a physician's recommendation that the 6-ft. 6 forward not participate in basketball this year.

Going into the season, Weston was pegged for a starting job -- but never shook off the effects of a virus attack during Thanksgiving. He did not appear in any of M.U.'s games.

Date Corrected For Matthews-Scott Hill, Tenn. Basketball Game

Matthews' Pirates will travel to Scott Hill, Tenn., for a basketball game Saturday instead of Friday as previously reported.

Coach Bob Price's young Missourians won a month ago, 92-82, on the excellent gunnery of guard Theo Franks (26) and forward Don Tomlinson (24). For the baby Bills, Joe Wiley collected 26.

Joining Franks (6-3) and Tomlinson (6-5) in the starting lineup will be Pete Helmbock (6-5), forward; Chuck Kundert (6-6), center; and Mike Seyfer (6-2), guard.

Gleaves Heads Dexter Clergy

Other officers named included Rev. Marshall Dark, pastor of the First Baptist Church, vice president; Ben Russell, First Presbyterian Church, secretary and Joe Tweddle, treasurer.

Roger Maris Expected To Report

ST. LOUIS AP -- Officials of the St. Louis Cardinals expect Roger Maris to report for spring training although some feel the former New York Yankee home run specialist may have considered retirement.

Cardinals' General Manager Bob Howsam said Thursday he visited with Maris in Kansas City last weekend and felt Maris had considered retirement, but has changed his mind.

Maris was traded to the Cardinals last month by New York with third baseman Charlie Smith going to the Yankees. In 1961, Maris hit a record 61 home runs for the Yankees.

Howsam also said eight members of Cardinals have been invited to report early for spring training in St. Petersburg, Fla.

Unemployment Pay in Bootheel

JEFFERSON CITY -- The Missouri division of employment security during 1966 reported a total of 881,710 weeks of unemployment on which unemployment benefits to workers amounted to $28,-695,491.20 from a total employer contribution of $45,-418,917.66.

Scott 2,729 $82,753.98 and $227,094.59; Dunklin, 7,688, $230,306.43 and $172,591.89; Mississippi, 4,693 weeks, $134-278.86 and $59.044.59; New Madrid, 1,511 weeks, $49,-671.70 and $63,586.48; Pemiscot, 5,692 weeks, $146, 738.50 and $86,295.94; Stoddard, 7,117 weeks, $181,881.85 and $163,508.10.

MU Tigers To Host

COLUMBIA -- The best defense for Iowa State's awesome shooting here this Saturday afternoon might be for Mizzou's home management to criss-cross the top of the Cyclone hoop with several strands of heavy-test, nylon thread.

Three Cyclone starters will carry 50-plus shooting percentages into this 1:15 p.m. televised game. Coach Glen Anderson's finalists in the 1966 Big Eight tournament show a team accuracy mark of 49.1 from the field.

Date Corrected For Matthews-Scott Hill, Tenn. Basketball Game

Matthews' Pirates will travel to Scott Hill, Tenn., for a basketball game Saturday instead of Friday as previously reported.

It's the first of ten televised Big Eight games -- with Monte Moore and Bob Zenner describing the action to a 25-station network in seven states.

Missouri (2-9) jumps back into conference play against Kansas State Tuesday night at Manhattan. So the Bengals will be taking on the Big Eight Tourney's No. 2 and No. 3 teams in their first league tests.

Iowa State (7-3) is led by the hot-shooting trio of Don Smith, an all-tournament choice, John McGonigle and Dave Fleming. Smith, a 6-ft. 8 junior center, is averaging 25.4 points with a 53.9 percentage from the field. McGonigle has a 17-point average, hitting 52.9 percent. Fleming is a 9.8 point shooter with a 52 percent efficiency mark.

Lanky Raul Duarte isn't far behind at 9.2 and 48.5 -- while fifth starter Dave Hartman falls off to a 2.7 average and 40 percent. By contrast, Ol' Mizzou's best marksman -- Gene Jones -- has connected on just 40 percent of his tries, the same as the Cyclones' No. 5 man in shooting proficiency.

Jones will be at center in Coach Bob Vanatta's newly-revised fivesome -- as the Tigers try to end a distressing string of seven losses, all on the road. The 6-ft. 7 junior from Brookport, Ill., replaced Booker Brown at the pivot against Oklahoma State and scored a seasonal high of 22 before fouling out.

He'll be joined in the front court with Jim Chapman (6-6) and Tom Johnson (6-4) -- while Ron Coleman (6-1) and Dave Bennett (6-2) are guard starters. Mizzou can count on more reserve strength now that guard Rob Vanatta and forward Tom Miltenberger are back in action.

Vanatta missed eight games with an ankle injury, while Miltenberger sat out last season with a fractured ankle.

Sophomore John Weston, ill all season with a virus, officially was removed from the roster this week, after a physician's recommendation that the 6-ft. 6 forward not participate in basketball this year.

Going into the season, Weston was pegged for a starting job -- but never shook off the effects of a virus attack during Thanksgiving. He did not appear in any of M.U.'s games.

Boxing Tourney Opens Jan. 13

The armory will be the site of the annual Sikeston invitational boxing tournament sponsored by the Sikeston Jaycees and Elks clubs.

The tournament will start with preliminaries next Friday and will be followed by the championship rounds Jan. 14.

Three states will be represented with approximately 80 fighters in participation.

Sikeston's Elks boxers captured the team championship last year and are unbeaten so far this season, taking the tournament championship at Memphis in 1966.

THE

Outlook for Business

PAUL F. LORENZ

AUTOMOTIVE INDUSTRY

Forecasting is always a hazardous undertaking, and right now, in the current period of rapidly changing economic and financial conditions, forecasting the short-run market outlook for the motor vehicle manufacturers is more hazardous than usual.

For four straight years, from 1962 through 1965, we enjoyed steady and rapid growth in our sales. Our main forecasting problem during most of that period was to estimate how much growth we could anticipate -- and generally, our expectations turned out to be low.

This year, the car market has fluctuated more than in other recent years. We started out, during the first quarter, with industry sales, including imports, at an all-time record annual rate of close to 10 million. In April and May - as a result of the traffic safety hearings in Washington along with higher income tax withholding and rising prices for consumer goods and services -- car sales fell off sharply to a 7.9 million annual rate. By July, however, sales had recovered to the 9 million level and remained there through the end of the 1966 model year.

The 1967 model year began at a very encouraging annual rate of 9.4 million for the first 20 days in October. At the end of the month, sales dropped to an 8.5 million level where they remained through the first 20 days of November. Total sales for the year will approximate 9 million - second only to last year's 9.3 million.

In order to forecast the outlook for the first half of this year, it is necessary to reach some conclusions about why car sales have been somewhat disappointing during the final quarter of 1966. Consumer buying power is clearly not the main problem. Unemployment is very low, and disposable income is still climbing. The cost of borrowing has risen, but as a general rule there has been adequate credit availability for retail car purchases during the period. Although living costs have been climbing, it appears to us that there is ample purchasing power to support car sales at a 9 million annual rate or even higher.

One clue is the fact that cars like Mustang and Cougar have continued to enjoy very strong demand while most other segments of the market are weaker. This tends to confirm our belief that people have the money to spend, but it also suggests that they are less willing to spend unless something unusually appealing comes along.

Our conclusion is that the major "minus" factor we may be facing is the confidence factor. If too many people become uncertain about their personal economic prospects for this year, if they are worried about the war in Vietnam and the possibility of higher taxes, if they don't know how much higher the cost of living will go, and if they begin to hear scattered reports of shorter workd weeks an plant layoffs, then car sales can be hurt. If people begin to feel that they may have to stretch a smaller income to cover bigger expenses, they are likely to postpone major purchases.

Where does this leave us as far as the next six months are concerned? We do not anticipate any future decline in car and truck sales. In our judgement, things will probably continue very much as they are. We expect that the economy will continue to expand through the first half in spite of obvious stresses and strains, however, the present mood of uncertainty may also continue and may continue to hold car purchases a little below what we would normally expect in a prosperous and growing economy. Specifically, we forecast car sales in the first half at an annual rate of a little more than 8.5 million, about 3 per cent below our estimate of normal 1967 demand.

Truck sales have also been below year-ago levels in recent months. After a record-breaking first half, truck sales dropped rather sharply in the third quarter of 1966. The estimated annual rate for the fourth quarter is 1.55 million compared with 1.7 million during the first half. With continued economic growth next year offset by an expected slowdown in the growth of business investment spending, we anticipate that truck sales will level off at a rate a little above 1.5 million during the next six months.

In summary, during the first half of this year we expect car and truck sales to remain at about their present levels. This would represent a moderate decline from the record high levels of 1965 and early 1966 -- but by any other measure, it would be a very good six months for our business.

King Calls for Eligibility Probe

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) - A demand for an immediate investigation of the eligibility of eight legislators marked the opening of Missouri's 1967 session.

Rep. R. J. (Bus) King, R-Clayton, minority floor leader, tossed in a resolution Wednesday asking that a committee of five be appointed to investigate eight St. Louis Democrats who allegedly do not live in their districts.

He called it "a shocking situation that threatens to rock the foundations of state government from top to bottom."

Until the situation is clarified he requested that the eight members not be allowed to vote.

They are Reps. John P. O'Reilly, Thomas A. Walsh, James P. Troupe Sr., Raymond Howard, Paul J. Simon, Mrs. Elsa Debra Hill, Harry C. Raiffie and Franklin Payne.

Bluff Grant Approved

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Department of Housing and Urban Development has approved a $6,000 advance to Poplar Bluff, Mo., to plan a municipal water system.

Couple Wed For 81 Years

FERGUS FALLS, Minn. (AP) —Ole and Otilla Sholberg hope their 81st wedding anniversary today will be a little more serene than the last one.

The two centenarians - Ole is 104 and Otilla is 102 — hosted newsmen and television cameramen last year, and sorted 1,200 letters of congratulation from around the world.

It was a little too much for Ole who has been confined to his bed, except for meals, since a week after the celebration.

But Mrs. Sholberg remains active, moving about by wheelchair, and doesn't even like to take an afternoon nap. She still does quite a big of reading from her Bible and her weekly Norwegian language newspaper.

Their 20 grandchildren have begat 46 great-grandchildren — and since the last anniversary four more great-great- grandchildren have pushed the fifth generation Sholberg's to nine.

Both Ole and Otilla came to Minnesota from Norway, Ole from the North Sea port town of Kristiansund where he helped his father fish, and Otilla from Skarnes.

Ole met his wife at the age of 15 when making his daily 16-mile hike to get the mail. He mustered enough courage to ask her for a drink of water.

His wife recalled once that, "it seemed Ole got very thirsty. He came back again."

The couple was married seven years later in the bride's family farm home — a log cabin — north of Underwood, Minn.

Their tidy home today — where they live with two daughters, Clara and the widowed Mrs. Frank Meter — is just 15 miles from their wedding site.

Ole is a retired farmer and carpenter. He built their home along with many others in the area and helped build Bethlehem Lutheran Church at Fergus Falls.

Last year the church dedicated a special service to the Sholberg's anniversary.

Otilla once summed up their marriage this way: "We have never had a serious quarrel. He has been a good man, and we have had a happy life. We will have a happy life."

Miner Baptist Church

Clint Roberson, Pastor

Front of Church is in Background

Located in Miner, one block north of Highway 62 East on Route H (Blodgett Road), the Miner Baptist Church has been serving the people of Miner and Sikeston for four decades. It's spacious buildings provide adequate facilities for a completely Departmentized Sunday School and Training Union as well as comfortable quarters in which to worship. One of the best cared for age groups is the Nursery. Three sections provide care for infants and children through three years. Five Nursery Workers provide an excellent teaching program in Sunday School, and voluntary workers, both men and women, extend the Nursery Care through the Worship Services.

Another strong Department of the Sunday School is the Young Adults. The church basement is Sunday morning quarters for this group, ages through thirty-four. The Adult Department (35 years and over) is the largest Department of the Sunday School.

Miner Baptist has always been blessed with a splendid Church Music Program, with an outstanding choir helping to provide those present with a real worship experience each time the Church meets. A singing church has many happy experiences.

Rev. and Mrs. Clint Roberson have been with Miner Baptist for eight years this month, coming here from a five year pastorate with First Baptist, Cardwell, Missouri. Duties as Pastor began at Miner February 1, 1959. The Roberson's daughter, Mary Jayne, graduated from Sikeston High School in the Class of '61.

The congregation at Miner provided an especially happy Christmas for the Robersons, 1966. A Love Gift of $105, with instructions to use it for a trip back home to Texas, for a get-to-gether with the kinfolks in a Post Christmas Celebration. The Trip was made, and a very happy time by all.

PICTURE: A GROUP OF MINER BAPTIST CHURCH YOUNG PEOPLE
This picture was made during the early years of Miner Baptist Church, prior to the building of the first unit of the present facilities. Several of the people in the group are faithful attendants and workers in the church at this present date.

Miner Baptist Church

Clint Roberson, Pastor

Front of Church is in Background

Located in Miner, one block north of Highway 62 East on Route H (Blodgett Road), the Miner Baptist Church has been serving the people of Miner and Sikeston for four decades. It's spacious buildings provide adequate facilities for a completely Departmentized Sunday School and Training Union as well as comfortable quarters in which to worship. One of the best cared for age groups is the Nursery. Three sections provide care for infants and children through three years. Five Nursery Workers provide an excellent teaching program in Sunday School, and voluntary workers, both men and women, extend the Nursery Care through the Worship Services.

Another strong Department of the Sunday School is the Young Adults. The church basement is Sunday morning quarters for this group, ages through thirty-four. The Adult Department (35 years and over) is the largest Department of the Sunday School.

Miner Baptist has always been blessed with a splendid Church Music Program, with an outstanding choir helping to provide those present with a real worship experience each time the Church meets. A singing church has many happy experiences.

Rev. and Mrs. Clint Roberson have been with Miner Baptist for eight years this month, coming here from a five year pastorate with First Baptist, Cardwell, Missouri. Duties as Pastor began at Miner February 1, 1959. The Roberson's daughter, Mary Jayne, graduated from Sikeston High School in the Class of '61.

The congregation at Miner provided an especially happy Christmas for the Robersons, 1966. A Love Gift of $105, with instructions to use it for a trip back home to Texas, for a get-to-gether with the kinfolks in a Post Christmas Celebration. The Trip was made, and a very happy time by all.

This picture was made during the early years of Miner Baptist Church, prior to the building of the first unit of the present facilities. Several of the people in the group are faithful attendants and workers in the church at this present date.

JUST LI-ON AROUND at the office is Symba, six-week-old lion cub who sometimes accompanies his mistress, Mrs. William W. Rodriguez of St. Petersburg, Fla., to her father-in-law's law office, where she works as a secretary. At home Symba plays with the Rodriguezes' five poodles and laps up milk and strained baby food. At the age of five or six months he will probably move to a zoo.

Gas Pipeline to Be Laid in Butler

CHICAGO -- Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America will begin construction this summer on facilities to increase its daily delivery capacity by 234 million cubic feet for the 1967-68 winter heating season. The expansion program -- involving both the company's transmission and underground storage facilities has been approved by the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C.

Plans call for the addition of 236 miles of 36 -inch diameter mainline loops in Arkansas, Illinois, Missouri, and Texas, and installation of 14,500 additional compressor horsepower at two company locations in Arkansas and Texas.

Cost of the project is estimated at $41.8 million.

In Missouri about 10 miles of 36 -inch loop pipeline will be laid in Butler county.

I CAN'T TAKE IT WITH ME SO

I have to sell my home. It's an older house with large rooms and a lot more comfortable living space than appears on the outside. It has an efficiency apartment with inside and outside entrances that can help make the payments. An extra heavy roof and gas furnace are only 7 years old. There are 3 bedrooms, living room, dining room, kitchen and breakfast room and enclosed porch besides the apartment and a basement with another bath. The inside needs redecorating and I'm moving Jan. 20, so I've slashed the price nearly $1500 under appraisal value and will throw in the apartment furniture. I would consider trading on a smaller single family house that I could rent. Call C. D. Butler any week day at GR 1-4474 or GR 1-0034.

Gas Pipeline to Be Laid in Butler

CHICAGO -- Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America will begin construction this summer on facilities to increase its daily delivery capacity by 234 million cubic feet for the 1967-68 winter heating season. The expansion program -- involving both the company's transmission and underground storage facilities has been approved by the Federal Power Commission in Washington, D. C.

Plans call for the addition of 236 miles of 36-inch diameter mainline loops in Arkansas, Illinois, Missouri, and Texas, and installation of 14,500 additional compressor horsepower at two company locations in Arkansas and Texas.

Cost of the project is estimated at $41.8 million.

In Missouri about 10 miles of 36-inch loop pipeline will be laid in Butler county.

E.V. Lucas in Luck of the Year: What are the most delicious scents? Everyone could make a list. Mine would contain sweetbrier in the air, so vague and elusive that search cannot trace the source. Pine trees on a hot day. Mint sauce. Newly split wood. Cinnamon. Ripe apples. Tea just opened. Coffee just ground. A racing stable. A dairy farm. Cigars in a box. A circus. And I have said nothing of flowers!

The Prayer
From The Upper Room

Everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving; for then it is consecreted by the word of God and prayer. (ITimothy 4:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to study Thy Word and see that we have a part in Thy creative world. Whatever our abilities and gifts, teach us to look to Thee at all times for help and inspiration. In Jesus' name. Amen.

Ellis Alcorn of McMullin was painfully injured Saturday morning when he fell backwards upon a sharp stake. Alcorn, with a companion, was pulling upon a rope attached to a corn grinder, when the rope broke, Alcorn falling upon the stake. He was taken to the hospital at Cape Girardeau for treatment.

The Sikeston fire Department is to be re-organized in the near future, it was decided by the city council in their regular meeting Monday night. Details of the re-organization were left by the council to the mayor, who plans to call a meeting of the entire organization at an early date and effect plans whereby the department can be operated more efficiently.

Word has been received that Joe Stubbs and family have arrived safely in San Diego, Calif. Their furniture had been shipped in time for friends to install it in their home so they would be able to go to housekeeping at once.

Morehouse -- On account of the sleet storm breaking down electric wires, our schools had to close down Tuesday noon until repair work is finished and the electric current is on again. Our town has been without lights since Monday noon. This is the first time in several years, the town has been without lights except a few hours at a time following a storm. It is expected schools will open Wednesday morning.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: On a recent visit to my hometown I learned that my oldest brother's son is a homosexual. I discussed this with another brother and he said it was "unavoidable" -- that homosexuality is an inherited trait. This made sense to me because two of my sisters have sons who are extremely effeminate.

I know very little about the subject, but I have read magazine articles which said homosexuality is not inherited --- that it is the result of environment.

My husband and I have been married only a few months and we want a family, but the thought that I might have a homosexual child frightens me to death. Please tell me if homosexuality is inherited. ---IMMOBILIZED

Dear Immobilized: Most experts say homosexuality is not inherited -- that it is a psychological disorder and that the roots of the difficulty go back to early childhood. The youngster's feelings about one or both parents is usually the key factor.

To deny yourself a family because you are afraid of producing a homosexual child is poor thinking.

P.S. About those "effeminate" nephews -- don't jump to conclusions. They may be perfectly normal. A high-pitched voice, fluttery hands and traits often associated with girlishness are not proof of homosexuality. Outward appearances can be woefully misleading.

Dear Ann Landers: When a person starts to tell a joke and says, "If I've told you this before, please stop me" --- should I be honest and stop him or should I allow him to go ahead and repeat a long, drawn-out yarn that wasn't very funny the first time?

Please settle this once and for all. ---HEARD IT ALL BEFORE

Dear Heard It: If you are the only one in the audience, it is best to say, "Yes, you told me that one." If others are present, allow him to repeat, which is what he really wants to do. (This advice does not apply if "the person" is your husband. A good wife should listen to the same joke 500 times if necessary --- and laugh every time.)

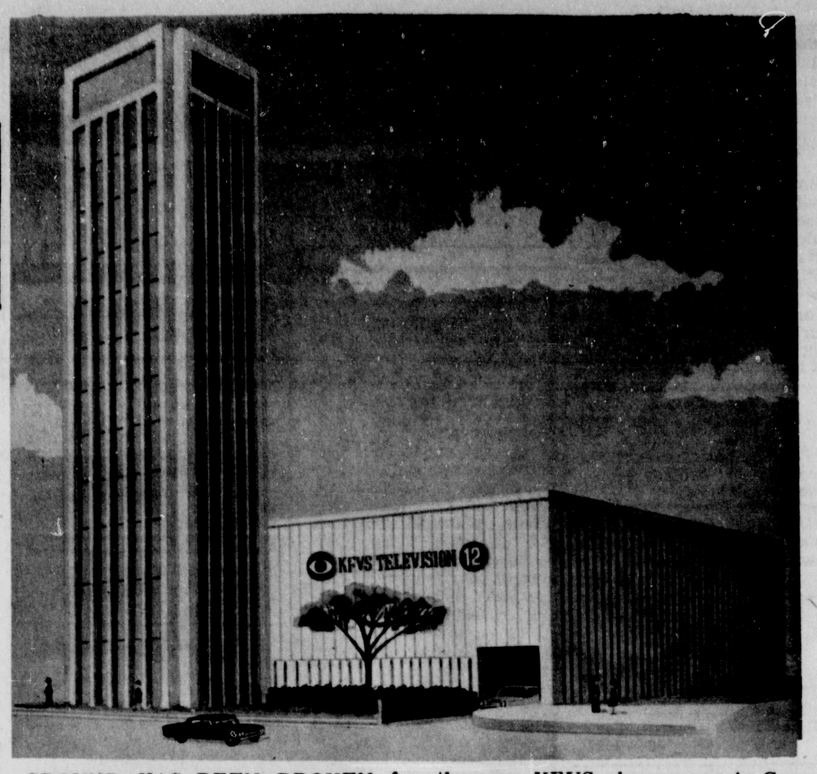

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will print this letter because my husband reads your column. He is one of those people who knows everything. If I try to tell him something, he says I am making a mountain out of a molehill.

How should a wife feel when her husband takes her out on the dance floor and after a few turns pushes her into another man's arms and grabs his partner?

I always end up with a character who is two heads shorter than I am ---or a half-smashed, left-footed clunk. I feel sorry for some of the men I get pushed on, because I'm sure they would rather dance with the women they had before my husband horned in and threw me at them.

I have told my husband a hundred times if he wants to dance with another woman, it is O.K., with me, but please ask her before the music starts and spare me the pot luck. Am I unreasonable? ---MOUNTAIN OR MOLEHILL

Dear M or M: A husband shows no regard for his wife's feelings when he throws her at another man and grabs a new partner. I hope you'll tell him so. Or better still --- show him this column and let me tell him.

GROUND HAS BEEN BROKEN for the new KFVS skyscraper in Cape Girardeau.

13-Story Building for Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Ground has been broken for what will become Cape Girardeau's tallest building, the new home of KFVS-Television.

The structure, 13 stories high, will be erected in the 300 block of Broadway between the old Opera House and the old First Federal Building.

Turning the first spadefuls of earth were Oscar C. Hirsch, founder and president of Hirsch Broadcasting Company, and his son, James F. Hirsch. The building will be ready for occupany by June of 1968.

When completed the structure will house all of the television operations of KFVS-TV on the first three floors and on the 13th floor. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction and fireproof.

The top floor, rising 150 feet, will house KFVS-TV's microwave and other electronic equipment. Direct microwave contact can be maintained with all points in line of sight of the top, which will include a large area surrounding Cape Girardeau. Live television cameras will be maintained on the 13th floor as will a lighting system which will indicate the weather forecast to the area by colored lights.

Armed Forces

USAGETA, Fort Lee, Va. -- "So you win a few -- lose a few!" -- For the USA General Equipment Test Activity (USAGETA), Fort Lee, Virginia, it was a definite loss but the U.S. Army Medical Corps, it should prove quite the opposite!

On the morning of December 21, 1966, J. Richard Trout was a Private E-2 working in USAGETA's Methods Engineering Directorate. As the result of his selection for direct commission that same afternoon, he became Second Lieutenant Trout, USA Medical Corps!

Lt. Trout was commissioned in the office of USAGETA's commanding officer. Colonel Carl E. Bledsoe, USAGETA's commander, presided over the impressive ceremonies. Witnessing the event were Captain Martin Lowther, company commander, USAGETA Head & Headquarters Co., Lt. Joseph J. Cardosi, representing MED, Lt. Nelson E. Greene, acting adjutant, and several of Trout's enlisted friends.

On completing his basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Missouri, the former enlisted man was assigned as a Physical Services Technician. The activity, USAGETA, is a major element of the U.S. Army Test and Evaluation Command (USATECOM), Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

Lt. Trout is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Trout of Kewanee, Missouri. He was graduated from Kewanee High School in 1959. Trout was a key member of that school's basketball and baseball team.

In 1963, Lt. Trout received his BS in Education from Arkansas State College, Jonesboro, Ark. In addition, he obtained his Master of Science degree in the field of Education from the same institution in 1966.

Lt. Trout is now stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas, where he is enrolled in the Medical Services Basic Officer Training Course. When the course is completed, the recently commissioned Second Lieutenant expects to receive a foreign duty assignment.

U.S. ARMY, VIETNAM (AHTNC) -- A second large contingent from the Army's 9th Infantry Division has arrived in Vietnam. Private First Class John D. Netteler, 20, whose wife, Ginger, lives on Route 2, Sikeston, Mo., accompanied the division's 39th Infantry from Ft. Riley, Kan., where it was formed and trained.

Pvt. Netteler is a rifleman in Company A of the infantry's 4th Battalion.

If you're looking for a girl to marry, steer clear of Dolcedo on the Italian Riviera. Should you take one of the village girls away, you'll have to pay the local marriage tax -- from two to 20 dollars depending upon your auto or other signs of wealth. As Mayor Angeloe Benza says: "It's a good old custom. After all, our girls are beautiful and make good wives. Strangers are lucky to get them."

Proceeds of the tax are always given to the local bachelors -- to pay for a consolation party.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE

By Jack Strauss LL.B

THE CASE OF THE UNUSUAL DEPOSIT

If Jim was a tired businessman, it was from running back and forth to his bank to deposit all the money he made. While he didn't mind being taxed from so satisfying a task, he discovered to his chagrin that it wasn't without hidden pitfalls. While stashing away a sack of loot into a night depository one evening, his thumb caught in the rotating cylinder.

Yowling as if he had just been put into a kettle of hot water, Jim sued the bank for his poor injured thumb.

"Because of that contraption," he complained to a judge, "I can't use it any more. What's more, since I used it in my business, I couldn't be in a worse predicament if I was a hitchhiker."

"That's too bad," responded a bank official, "but it's not our fault Jim got his thumb caught in so simple a mechanism as our night depository. After all, it's a depository for money and not thumbs."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you make the bank pay for the injuries to Jim's thumb?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that while Jim's injury was no doubt painful, a person cannot hold another person responsible for his injuries unless he can show that his injuries were due to the other person's fault. In this case, Jim failed to show any fault on the part of the bank. The night depository was a simple mechanism to operate.

12	00 THE LIVING PRAYER

E.V. Lucas in Luck of the Year: What are the most delicious scents? Everyone could make a list. Mine would contain sweetbrier in the air, so vague and elusive that search cannot trace the source. Pine trees on a hot day. Mint sauce. Newly split wood. Cinnamon. Ripe apples. Tea just opened. Coffee just ground. A racing stable. A dairy farm. Cigars in a box. A circus. And I have said nothing of flowers!

The Prayer

From The Upper Room

Everything created by God is good, and nothing is to be rejected if it is received with thanksgiving; for then it is consecreted by the word of God and prayer. (ITimothy 4:4-5, RSV)

PRAYER: Our Father, help us to study Thy Word and see that we have a part in Thy creative world. Whatever our abilities and gifts, teach us to look to Thee at all times for help and inspiration. In Jesus' name. Amen.

ANN LANDERS

Answers Your Questions

Dear Ann Landers: On a recent visit to my hometown I learned that my oldest brother's son is a homosexual. I discussed this with another brother and he said it was "unavoidable" -- that homosexuality is an inherited trait. This made sense to me because two of my sisters have sons who are extremely effeminate.

I know very little about the subject, but I have read magazine articles which said homosexuality is not inherited --- that it is the result of environment.

My husband and I have been married only a few months and we want a family, but the thought that I might have a homosexual child frightens me to death. Please tell me if homosexuality is inherited. ---IMMOBILIZED

Dear Immobilized: Most experts say homosexuality is not inherited -- that it is a psychological disorder and that the roots of the difficulty go back to early childhood. The youngster's feelings about one or both parents is usually the key factor.

To deny yourself a family because you are afraid of producing a homosexual child is poor thinking.

P.S. About those "effeminate" nephews -- don't jump to conclusions. They may be perfectly normal. A high-pitched voice, fluttery hands and traits often associated with girlishness are not proof of homosexuality. Outward appearances can be woefully misleading.

Dear Ann Landers: When a person starts to tell a joke and says, "If I've told you this before, please stop me" --- should I be honest and stop him or should I allow him to go ahead and repeat a long, drawn-out yarn that wasn't very funny the first time?

Please settle this once and for all. ---HEARD IT ALL BEFORE

Dear Heard It: If you are the only one in the audience, it is best to say, "Yes, you told me that one." If others are present, allow him to repeat, which is what he really wants to do. (This advice does not apply if "the person" is your husband. A good wife should listen to the same joke 500 times if necessary ---and laugh every time.)

Dear Ann Landers: I hope you will print this letter because my husband reads your column. He is one of those people who knows everything. If I try to tell him something, he says I am making a mountain out of a molehill.

How should a wife feel when her husband takes her out on the dance floor and after a few turns pushes her into another man's arms and grabs his partner?

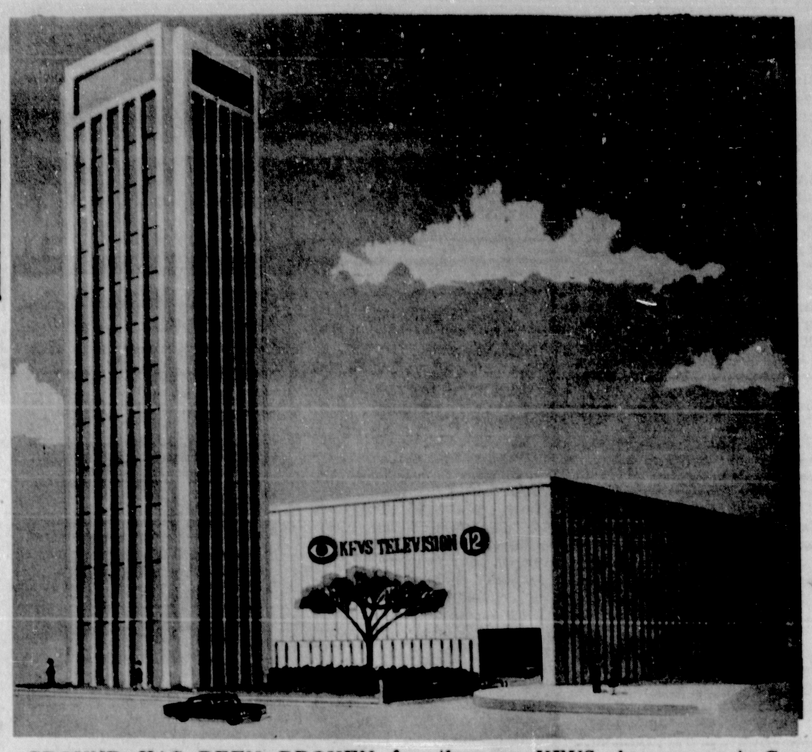

I always end up with a character who is two heads shorter than I am ---or a half-smashed, left-footed clunk. I feel sorry for some of the men I get pushed on, because I'm sure they would rather dance with the women they had before my husband horned in and threw me at them.

I have told my husband a hundred times if he wants to dance with another woman, it is O.K., with me, but please ask her before the music starts and spare me the pot luck. Am I unreasonable? ---MOUNTAIN OR MOLEHILL

Dear M or M: A husband shows no regard for his wife's feelings when he throws her at another man and grabs a new partner. I hope you'll tell him so. Or better still --- show him this column and let me tell him.

GROUND HAS BEEN BROKEN for the new KFVS skyscraper in Cape Girardeau.

13-Story Building for Cape

CAPE GIRARDEAU -- Ground has been broken for what will become Cape Girardeau's tallest building, the new home of KFVS-Television.

The structure, 13 stories high, will be erected in the 300 block of Broadway between the old Opera House and the old First Federal Building.

Turning the first spadefuls of earth were Oscar C. Hirsch, founder and president of Hirsch Broadcasting Company, and his son, James F. Hirsch. The building will be ready for occupany by June of 1968.

When completed the structure will house all of the television operations of KFVS-TV on the first three floors and on the 13th floor. The building will be of reinforced concrete construction and fireproof.

The top floor, rising 150 feet, will house KFVS-TV's microwave and other electronic equipment. Direct microwave contact can be maintained with all points in line of sight of the top, which will include a large area surrounding Cape Girardeau. Live television cameras will be maintained on the 13th floor as will a lighting system which will indicate the weather forecast to the area by colored lights.

The second level will contain a large television studio.

Today In U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1927, 600 United States Marines and several war vessels were sent to Nicaragua to protect American interests.

On this date

In 1412, Joan of Arc was born.

In 1919, former President Theodore Roosevelt died.

Ten years ago—After a series of raids across the Northern Ireland border by the Irish Republican army, Irish Prime Minister John Costello condemned all such efforts to unite the six counties of Northern Ireland with the Republic of Ireland by force.

Five years ago — President Kennedy told Ohio Democrats at a dinner in Columbus that his administration was pledged to progress in medical care and in education. The chief executive also asked for support for his program to combat mental retardation.

One year ago—Soviet troubleshooter Alesandr Shelpin headed for Hanoi on a mission which observers speculated could well affect the Vietnamese War.

tors — including "more than one bidder (who) has been a known LBJ detractor" — also are seeking the painting as a political and historical collector's item.

Hurd said he spent six to eight weeks on the initial painting. "I just never spent so much time on a painting in my life. Perhaps I was overanxious to make it a success."

"I'm just sorry I flunked the job," he continued. "I won't say it's unsuccessful. I don't agree. I'm sorry they considered it unsuccessful."

Hurd's brother-in-law, artist Andrew Wyeth said in Chadds Ford, Pa., Thursday night that Hurd was "practically bludgeoned" into doing the portrait.

"Peter had refused to do it," Wyeth said. "Then at a dinner in Washington, the President introduced him to some dignitaries by saying, 'Here's the man who's going to do my portrait.' Peter was dumfounded."

Mrs. Carpenter cited the size of the portrait, the background of the brilliantly lighted Capitol and the inconsistency of the painting style with other White House portraits as the three principal reasons for its rejection.

She said no other portrait of Johnson is currently underway.

Mrs. Alberta Miller, both of Chicago; Mrs. Marie Hunt, Mae Lee and Marilyn Kay Lambert, all of Sikeston.

Jennings died as the result of an accident Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. on a county road four miles southeast of Advance on old highway 25, when his tractor turned over on him as the vehicle was going up a steep embankment into a corn field.

He had a stalled combine in the field and was on his way to bring the vehicle to the storage shed.

A brother, Roy Jennings, was in the field.

He was born June 30, 1925. Besides his brother other survivors are his father, C. C. Jennings, route two; a second brother who is in the army, and a sister, living in Idaho.

The body was taken to the Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

Eulas Redden, 62, driving a 1955 Ford pickup truck, lost control of his truck Wednesday at 9:20 a.m. on highway 60, five miles east of Charleston.

The vehicle went down a levee and struck a telephone pole.

He received head injuries, and a passenger, Maudie Dinsmore, 58, East Prairie, suffered minor injuries.

Both were taken to the St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo.

Canadian Get Bonus For Families

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians will pocket about $608 million in tax-free government payments this fiscal year, just for having families.

The payments are made under Canada's family allowance and youth allowance programs. Many people lump them as the "baby bonus." Some Americans have suggested a similar U.S. plan as part of antipoverty planning.

The payoff to parents is a substantial slice of Canadian government costs. For comparison: Total expenditures by the Department of National Defense for the same year ending next March 31, are estimated at $1.57 billion.

Aimed at equalizing opportunities for children, the family allowance law went into effect in 1945, when Canada's population was about 12 million. The postwar baby crop and immigration have pushed the population to 20 million, making the allowance one of the main planks in Canada's social welfare structure.

At the start, the program provided payments of $5 a month for each child from birth to age 5, $6 up to the 10th birthday, $7 to the 13th and $8 to the 16th.

This was changed in 1957 to $6 a month from birth to the 10th birthday and $8 from there to the 16th.

A sliding scale that reduced payments for fifth and successive children in any one family, written into the original law, was removed in 1949.

A government official said the thinking behind this scale was that a larger family could cut the clothing bill by using hand-me-downs. This didn't hold true in practice, he said, "and you don't hand down food, either."

So present regulations contain no riders about the size of any individual family.

The youth allowance program was enacted in 1964. It provides $10 a month for any boy or girl 16 or 17 who still attends school.

Family and youth allowance payments are not counted as income for tax purposes. The family breadwinner is given a deduction of $350 a year for each dependent child under 16. The deduction jumps to $550 after that, even though the child qualifies for youth allowance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,

R. C. Martin says:

The American people should have only two major concerns. The first and foremost concern of any individual should be to please God. Second, he should be engaged in a desperate struggle to save his country; to perserve the human rights that were so hard won and given to us by our forefathers.

Strong emphasis is being put on education, and many men who are supposedly endowed with great worldly wisdom, possesses high degrees of knowledge, and bask in echelons of intelligence tell us that education is the key to the American dream. And when everybody is education most of the problems of the world will simply go away. It is true, to a high degree, that the lack of education poses a great threat, and is one of the greatest problems of the world, and educators are right in saying so.

But, is it not also true that the acquiring of knowledge and the indoctrinating of a philosophy is education in itself? And men everywhere regardless of the degree of their learning without the moral fiber and spiritual stability to attach themselves to a great and just cause are not really educated.

Which is the educated man, the one who possesses a masters degree in mathematics and uses his mathematical knowledge to figure ways and means to defraud his fellowmen, or the man who knows hardly enough mathematics to dig a two by four ditch, yet he digs in behalf of humanity? The doctors who are charging outrageous fees; who are more concerned about the almighty dollar than they are about the health of their patients. Or the lawyer who cannot be trusted, who will tell the ignorant of the law anything to earn a fee. Or a judge who can be swayed with worldly means. Or a "Supreme Court" that makes atheistic decisions in direct discord to the principles of its Countries Constitution. Or a preacher, for that matter, who preaches for worldly fame and not for the souls of men. Are these the educated ones? Is this kind of knowledge education, actions motivated by strange desires? Desires that are completely alien to the principles of God.

Only those men who have associated and dedicated themselves to a high and noble and just cause are truly educated. And when it has become possible for educators to plant or instill in the mind and heart of the masses of humanity that education is basically a philosophy and degree of education is generally marked by the individuals degree of desire to be attached to a just and noble cause.

The men who occupy the seats of high learning have not, in my opinion, hit upon the basic need of man.

When mankind can be taught and learn that education is not necessarily the acquiring of knowledge, but education is the art of making the proper application with ones immediate knowledge; and if any educator can learn this himself and master the technique of getting it across to his pupils, he will have rendered his fellowman a most needed service.

Sincerely,
R. C. Martin

Shadows decline
Casting pale shadows
On pale hands

Saying with sad finality,

"LOVE AND RELIGION"

Love and religion are the two spheres that are potentally the most highly charged with emotion. Thus, many people associate them in their minds. If they are afraid of losing love, they are afraid of losing faith. If they have faith in love, they have faith in faith. We believe you would enjoy worshipping where both faith and love are a reality. We invite you to worship at TRINITY BAPTIST CHURCH, 110 E. Center Street, this Sunday at 10:30 A.M.

Sincerely,

tors — including "more than one bidder (who) has been a known LBJ detractor" — also are seeking the painting as a political and historical collector's item.

Hurd said he spent six to eight weeks on the initial painting. "I just never spent so much time on a painting in my life. Perhaps I was overanxious to make it a success."

"I'm just sorry I flunked the job," he continued. "I won't say it's unsuccessful. I don't agree. I'm sorry they considered it unsuccessful."

Hurd's brother-in-law, artist Andrew Wyeth said in Chadds Ford, Pa., Thursday night that Hurd was "practically bludgeoned" into doing the portrait.

"Peter had refused to do it," Wyeth said. "Then at a dinner in Washington, the President introduced him to some dignitaries by saying, 'Here's the man who's going to do my portrait.' Peter was dumfounded."

Mrs. Carpenter cited the size of the portrait, the background of the brilliantly lighted Capitol and the inconsistency of the painting style with other White House portraits as the three principal reasons for its rejection.

She said no other portrait of Johnson is currently underway.

Mrs. Alberta Miller, both of Chicago; Mrs. Marie Hunt, Mae Lee and Marilyn Kay Lambert, all of Sikeston.

Jennings died as the result of an accident Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. on a county road four miles southeast of Advance on old highway 25, when his tractor turned over on him as the vehicle was going up a steep embankment into a corn field.

He had a stalled combine in the field and was on his way to bring the vehicle to the storage shed.

A brother, Roy Jennings, was in the field.

He was born June 30, 1925. Besides his brother other survivors are his father, C. C. Jennings, route two; a second brother who is in the army, and a sister, living in Idaho.

The body was taken to the Chiles-Cooper Funeral Home in Bloomfield.

Eulas Redden, 62, driving a 1955 Ford pickup truck, lost control of his truck Wednesday at 9:20 a.m. on highway 60, five miles east of Charleston.

The vehicle went down a levee and struck a telephone pole.

He received head injuries, and a passenger, Maudie Dinsmore, 58, East Prairie, suffered minor injuries.

Both were taken to the St. Mary's Hospital in Cairo.

Canadian Get Bonus For Families

OTTAWA (AP) — Canadians will pocket about $608 million in tax-free government payments this fiscal year, just for having families.

The payments are made under Canada's family allowance and youth allowance programs. Many people lump them as the "baby bonus." Some Americans have suggested a similar U.S. plan as part of antipoverty planning.

The payoff to parents is a substantial slice of Canadian government costs. For comparison: Total expenditures by the Department of National Defense for the same year ending next March 31, are estimated at $1.57 billion.

Aimed at equalizing opportunities for children, the family allowance law went into effect in 1945, when Canada's population was about 12 million. The postwar baby crop and immigration have pushed the population to 20 million, making the allowance one of the main planks in Canada's social welfare structure.

At the start, the program provided payments of $5 a month for each child from birth to age 5, $6 up to the 10th birthday, $7 to the 13th and $8 to the 16th.

This was changed in 1957 to $6 a month from birth to the 10th birthday and $8 from there to the 16th.

A sliding scale that reduced payments for fifth and successive children in any one family, written into the original law, was removed in 1949.

A government official said the thinking behind this scale was that a larger family could cut the clothing bill by using hand-me-downs. This didn't hold true in practice, he said, "and you don't hand down food, either."

So present regulations contain no riders about the size of any individual family.

The youth allowance program was enacted in 1964. It provides $10 a month for any boy or girl 16 or 17 who still attends school.

Family and youth allowance payments are not counted as income for tax purposes. The family breadwinner is given a deduction of $350 a year for each dependent child under 16. The deduction jumps to $550 after that, even though the child qualifies for youth allowance.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Sikeston Standard
Sikeston, Missouri

Dear Mr. Blanton,

R. C. Martin says:

The American people should have only two major concerns. The first and foremost concern of any individual should be to please God. Second, he should be engaged in a desperate struggle to save his country; to perserve the human rights that were so hard won and given to us by our forefathers.

Strong emphasis is being put on education, and many men who are supposedly endowed with great worldly wisdom, possesses high degrees of knowledge, and bask in echelons of intelligence tell us that education is the key to the American dream. And when everybody is education most of the problems of the world will simply go away. It is true, to a high degree, that the lack of education poses a great threat, and is one of the greatest problems of the world, and educators are right in saying so.

But, is it not also true that the acquiring of knowledge and the indoctrinating of a philosophy is education in itself? And men everywhere regardless of the degree of their learning without the moral fiber and spiritual stability to attach themselves to a great and just cause are not really educated.

Which is the educated man, the one who possesses a masters degree in mathematics and uses his mathematical knowledge to figure ways and means to defraud his fellowmen, or the man who knows hardly enough mathematics to dig a two by four ditch, yet he digs in behalf of humanity? The doctors who are charging outrageous fees; who are more concerned about the almighty dollar than they are about the health of their patients. Or the lawyer who cannot be trusted, who will tell the ignorant of the law anything to earn a fee. Or a judge who can be swayed with worldly means. Or a "Supreme Court" that makes atheistic decisions in direct discord to the principles of its Countries Constitution. Or a preacher, for that matter, who preaches for worldly fame and not for the souls of men. Are these the educated ones? Is this kind of knowledge education, actions motivated by strange desires? Desires that are completely alien to the principles of God.

Only those men who have associated and dedicated themselves to a high and noble and just cause are truly educated. And when it has become possible for educators to plant or instill in the mind and heart of the masses of humanity that education is basically a philosophy and degree of education is generally marked by the individuals degree of desire to be attached to a just and noble cause.

The men who occupy the seats of high learning have not, in my opinion, hit upon the basic need of man.

When mankind can be taught and learn that education is not necessarily the acquiring of knowledge, but education is the art of making the proper application with ones immediate knowledge; and if any educator can learn this himself and master the technique of getting it across to his pupils, he will have rendered his fellowman a most needed service.

Sincerely,
R. C. Martin

AN OLD LADY SITS BY THE WINDOW AND KNITS

Esoterically speaking,
Shadows decline
Casting pale shadows
On pale hands
That move in and out,
Saying with sad finality,
All is finished.
And yet hoping, as the eyes speak,
Watching glittering goldfish
Swim languidly in the sun.
